FOURTH INNING FATAL FOR GIANTS IN SECOND BIG GAME

YANKEES ARE 6 TO 5 FAVORITES TODAY

By NICK FLATLEY

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 12.—Just 431 years ago today the rather well-known Christopher Columbus crossed the Atlantic ocean and discovered America. That was one of the world's achievements.

All Columbus crossed was the ocean—Babe Ruth crossed John McGraw and the entire Giants' ball club. Today Mac was trying to discover a pitcher who could keep the Bambino from hitting.

Although the delicatessen shops and the establishments proclaimed by three gilt balls suspended over the front door did not close today, the financial institutions did, and the fans swarmed into Colonel Jake's ball yard in abundance and earlier than usual.

At 11 o'clock the right field

NORTHLAND DELAYED 7 HOURS BY PALL OF SMOKE AND FOG

Aheavy pall of smoke drifting across the entrance of the Cape Cod canal, together with a grey cloud of fog, caused the steamer Northland of the Metropolitan line, bound from New York to Boston, to anchor at the canal entrance last night. The Northland did not resume her voyage until daybreak and arrived in Boston about seven hours behind her scheduled time.

The 150 passengers on board suffered no discomfort. Heavy fires are burning on many sections of the cape, and the smoke drifting to sea is causing steamer captains to exercise the greatest precautions.

VICTIM IS FOUND IN HER ROOM

New York, Oct. 12.—The almost nude body of Miss Estelle Phillips, an attractive department store saleswoman, was found bound and gagged today in her West 97th street furnished room.

A man, described to police as the son of a Montreal minister, was sought after Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, acting chief medical examiner, reported that death was caused by strangulation and that murder ap-

NATIONAL GUARDSMAN DEAD IN 'BORROWED' AUTO CRASH

Brockton, Oct. 12.—Lewis Britton of this city was killed when an automobile crashed into a tree near Lake Monpousett in Halifax early today. Adenoir E. Carrier, driver of the car, who with four other occupants escaped serious injury, was arrested on charges of manslaughter and unlawful appropriation of an automobile.

The six men, members of the local battery of the National Guard, after drill went to a garage and the man in charge told the police that they took the car without his permission.

MAN IN MAINE MURDER WED FOUR TIMES

Jefferson, Me., Oct. 12.—Father Time's hand rests heavily on the hoary head of Fred L. Post, in a cell here accused of killing Mrs. Sybil Estelle Hamilton of Rockland.

Not one whit, though, have sear ing years and time's impress dulled the romance in his heart.

Three-score years have rolled along since the unassuming, gold bespectacled man now lodged behind bars was born into a world which has afforded him a myriad of thrills, adventures and much romance.

Fred L. Post, by profession a marine engineer, has not been always "on the beach." He has lived a sailor's life. All climes, many ports. In his time he has married four wives. One, at least, is alive. She is Mrs. Margaret Post, and works

ROBBERS BUSY IN CAMBRIDGE, BREAK INTO 2 GEM SHOPS

Robbers who smashed a plate glass window in the jewelry store of Morrey & Hurisch, at No. 1008 Cambridge street, today got nothing but disappointment. Chagrined, they dropped their paper wrapped brick and brought their jimmies into use.

They went to the jewelry store of Joseph Auriel & Bros., two blocks distant and attacked from the rear, forcing a door. They removed what the police called "a considerable amount of jewelry" and called it a night.

GERMAN MINERS SIGN PACT TO RESUME WORK IN RUHR

Dusseldorf, Oct. 12. (A.P.)—An agreement has been signed between the German miners' unions and the French authorities for the return to work of all the miners and officials of the Dorstfeld Mine, one of the largest in the Ruhr, which the French occupied some time ago to exploit it themselves. A similar agreement was made for the Bergfeld Mine in the same district. Under the agreement all the expelled miners, officials and office employes are allowed to return.

BALK ESCAPE OF 4 AT LEAVENWORTH

Leavenworth, Kas., Oct. 12.—Four prisoners, two of them considered dangerous, were shot and clubbed into submission when they attempted to escape from the stone quarry at the United States Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth.

George Jackson of Paterson, N. J., convicted of murder, and Dan Simpson of Clinton, Indiana, were shot through the hips and dangerously wounded. Samuel Tribe of Woodland, Pa., was shot in the leg; Thomas Scullion of Iowa, who was convicted overseas by court martial of killing four men and who at one time was sentenced to be shot, was severely beaten.

The men attempted to escape as they jumped up from the dinner table and headed for a heavily wooded section of the reservation. Guards opened fire when commands to halt were disregarded.

FEDERAL AND STATE DRY AGENTS TO COMBINE

Washington, Oct. 12.—Adoption of a sweeping national code for the enforcement of the dry law is the chief suggestion which the Coolidge administration will advance to the governors' conference at the White House on Oct. 20. This plan, worked out by the prohibition unit on the basis of questionairres submitted to all state executives, entails closest co-ordination of federal and state dry agencies in gathering up the loose ends and strengthening the weak spots in the nation-wide liquor enforcement system.

VICTIM WA SISTER O FIRST WIFE

as a clerk in a New London department store.

With this discovery today, nes was reported to the authorities her in charge of the prosecution of Pos for murder, which has started the into investigation of the quiet, litt man's past.

FIRST WIFE'S SISTER.

From the lips of the faithful wif in New London, mourning only th prolonged absence of her mate, hav been injected words which veritabl hurtle romance into the somewhat drab story of "just another murder."

Mrs. Hamilton, the slain woman, was the sister of Fred L. Post's first wife!

Fred Post has been absent from his home in New London since last Christmas.

The little, ageing man had married three women before his whirlwind courtship of his New London sweetheart terminated in marriage—and temporary bliss.

A letter received this week by Mrs. Post was written by Post from a hotel in Rockland, Me. (Mrs. Hamilton is the widow of a Rockland hotel keeper and present proprietor of the hotel).

Until his departure from New London last Christmas, Post had lived quietly, his life with Mrs. Post unpunctuated by the customary absences dictated by his profession for several years.

All this was drawn from the hesitant lips of the New London wife by interrogators who broke the news to the accused man's wife that Post was held in Maine charged with crime calendar's worst smirch.

Mrs. Hamilton was shot dead by a barrage of bullets from a Colt revolver. Three bullets were found in her body. A fourth passed through. The shots were fired at close range. Post was sitting in a roadster seat beside her when she died. He owned a Colt revolver.

AT CLOSE RANGE.

Witnesses testified to these salient facts at the arraignment of Post in Epworth League Hall here. It was told also that Post had been a policeman in Rockland.

The supposition that a stray bullet from a hunter's gun had killed the charming Rockland widow was definitely exploded by the testimony of Medical Examiner Odiorne.

Particularly damning bits of testimony, according to the prosecution, were given by the medical examiner, whose declaration that the shots were fired at such close range that jagged gashes were torn in the victim's coat and shirtwaist created a poignant tensity, and by Mildred Hamilton, 12 years old, adopted daughter of the dead woman, who testified that Post had owned a Colt revolver.

IDENTIFIES GUN.

When questioned by Merritt A. Johnson, counsel for Post, about this revolver, the girl replied quickly and decisively.

"How did you know the revolver was a Colt?" she was asked.

"Because I remember the name on the box," she answered. Mildred Hamilton was the closing witness of the first day's hearing. Post was held without bail and was taken to Knox county jail.

Throughout the hearing he seemed dazed. His bewilderment continued during the ride from Jefferson to Rockland.

POST'S STORY.

He would make no comment, however, on his story that as he passed a meadow outside of town he heard three or four shots and that the car began to wobble; that Mrs. Hamilton said, "I feel awfully" and collapsed against him; that he lifted her out of the car and went for help.

From the story told by other witnesses the following description of the tragedy was compounded.

Four shots were fired. They pierced the breasts and side of Mrs. Hamilton. She was driving the car. She dropped over the wheel. The car proceeded dizzily. It wobbled from its straight course. The dying woman was jolted so that her head and arms drooped over the front left door.

Ten yards further the car was brought to a stop, probably by the application by Post of the emergency brake.

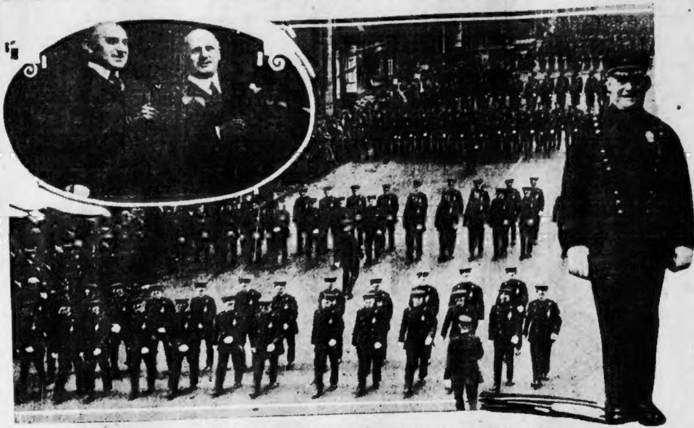
WIFE IS DAZED

And there, in that jolting roadster which became a hurdling catafalque, the comely widow breathed her last.

Into the serenity of the one known living, legal wife of Fred L. Post has come this shock which has left her no less dazed than the quiet little man whom tragic circumstances shows to public gaze as philanderer, romanticist and adventurer—if no worse.

She stands the test. A humdrum, garden variety has existence of been her lot. Love came late into the life of this woman, who labors over the counters of a department store—and late love persists.

BOSTON'S BEST' IN HOLIDAY MARCH



POLIC PARADERS ON BOYLSTON STREET NEAR TREMONT

POLICE PARADE FEATURE OF HOLIDAY

Parades, pageants, athletic carnivals, air manoeuvres, concerts and banquets held a multitude of stages and arenas today in Boston's annual celebration of Columbus Day.

Scores of thousands sought holiday recreation at a variety of attractions.

Official City of Boston observance of the 431st anniversary of the landing of Christopher Columbus consisted of an elaborate program to continue well into the night on Boston Common.

The two largest parades were those of the Boston police and war veterans. Three battalions of police commanded by Superintendent Michael H. Crowley had a marching schedule starting at Commonwealth avenue and Dartmouth street and winding up on the Common.

Governor Cox and Secretary of War Weeks were to review the Spanish War Veterans' parade. Ten thousand vets participated, under command of Major-General Embury P. Clark, M. N. G., retired. Major-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, was honorary chief of staff.

Prior to the start of the parade a cannon captured by the regular Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth United States Infantry at Santiago July 2, 1898, was unveiled on the State House grounds.

A parade participated in by groups of 12, representing 25 nations, marched after reviewing the veterans' parade at City Hall.

A municipal athletic meet was held on the Common. It was followed by a "get-together festival." Guests at the festival were foreign consuls and diplomatic agents, and mayors of twenty-five Massachusetts cities. The visiting mayors will be feted tonight by the city at a dinner in Copley Plaza.

The Boston air port sent eleven airplanes to Westfield to participate in the dedication of the first municipal airdrome in the Bay State.

STOVE BLAST KILLS MOTHER AND CHILD

Cleveland, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Anna Sukenik and her four-year-old daughter are dead, and James Sukenik, husband and father, his body seared with burns, is battling for life in a hospital here today, as the aftermath of a fire which burned their home at Brunswick, five other Sukenik children were rescued by neighbors. The kitchen stove exploded as Mrs. Sukenik started a fire using gasoline in mistake for kerosene.

BAR HARBOR RUM PLOTTER JAILED

Bangor, Me., Oct. 12.—Two months in jail and a fine of $500 was the sentence imposed in United States court here today upon George McKay of Bar Harbor on a charge of conspiracy in violation of the Volstead act. Several others in the same plot ahead had been given sentences varying from a fine of $500 and a year and a day at the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

Boy Wins $13,500 Verdict Against 'L' for Loss of Legs

For the loss of both legs by a car of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, seven-year-old John Francis Kelley will receive $13,500. His father, Thomas F. Kelley, brought suit for $50,000 and a settlement was effected out of court. The accident occurred on Tremont, near Worthington street, Roxbury, on July 23, 1921, and the boy was in the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for more than three months.

LEGIONNAIRES ARE FLOCKING IN

San Francisco, Oct. 12 (C.N.S.).—The advance guard of the Legion army has reached here and captured the town. Committee chairmen are establishing offices, candidates and their campaign managers are opening headquarters and the office force from national headquarters is hard at work.

Reports from various sources forecast an attendance of about 40,000, not counting the visitors who will come to watch the Legionnaires enjoy themselves. The town is ready—and will be able to give a real party.

The convention itself will open next Monday—and last five days. There is some doubt that the delegates will last that long.

ADVERTISING MEN ELECT RESOR HEAD

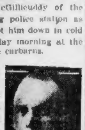
Stanley Resor

S. A. Conover of the S. L. Conover Company of Boston was elected secretary; Merle Gardner of Indianapolis, vice president; John P. Hallman of the H. K. McCann Co., New York, treasurer. H. B. Humphrey was chosen chairman of the New England Council.

IDENTIFIED BY COP AS HIS ASSAILANT

William Grossman, No. 1853 Columbus avenue, Roxbury, was identified at the City Hospital by Patrolman John J. McGillicuddy of the Roxbury Crossing police station as the man who shot him down in cold blood early Monday morning at the Columbus avenue carbarns.



John J. McGillicuddy

"If I were on my deathbed and knew I would have no opportunity to retract a word of what I am saying, I would say Grossman is the man who shot me," McGillicuddy said.

McGillicuddy is still in a critical condition, from three shots in his body fired by one of two men he had found acting suspiciously.

FLAGS TRAIN; SAVES FIVE IN WRECKED AUTO

Five injured men in the tangled wreckage of an overturned automobile on the tracks of the New Haven Railroad at the foot of West Canton steet, South End, were saved from death when a Providence express was flagged and brought to a stop seventy-five feet from the upset motor car.

The injured:

Albert Walsh, twenty-five years old, son of John J. Walsh, No. 16 Huntington avenue, Roslindale, driver of the car, face and hands cut; taken to his home.

ON DANGER LIST.

Edmund Poulin, sixty-three years old, No. 13 Pleasant street, Dexter, Me., concussion of brain, fractured ribs; name on danger list at City Hospital.

Edward R. Poulin, son of Edmund, twenty-three years old, No. 300 Haywood street, East Braintree, body injuries; treated at City Hospital.

Albert W. Jackson, twenty-nine years old, No. 30 Hillside avenue, East Braintree, back injured and face cut; treated at City Hospital.

"FATHER" OF 57 SAYS HE IS PERSECUTED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12.—Declaring he has been persecuted, harassed and misjudged, Dr. H. B. Allen, father of 57 children through adoption, and founder of the now defunct Paul Gray plantation school at Sabot, Va., arrived here today in the company of U. S. Deputy Marshal Henry Lessner of Los Angeles.

Dr. Allen's bail has been fixed at $10,000, and he was put in jail. He is accused in the indictment returned by a Federal Grand Jury of bringing Gladith Allen, 17 years old, one of his adopted daughters, to Pittsburgh from Sabot a year ago.

WEEKS YIELDS TO PANAMA PROTEST

Washington, Oct. 12.—Plans to transfer to private interests the wholesale activities of the Panama Railroad Commissary Department have been dropped by the War Department. A contract submitted by New York interests has been under consideration for some months, but after lengthy conferences with Governor Morrow of the canal one, Secretary Weeks has decided not to complete the deal. The Panama government protested against the project, contending the land occupied by the railroad commissary was made available to the United States government for its own operation only.

Vancouver—The Canadian Pacific Railroad announces an embargo on the shipment of grain from Alberta to Vancouver until the longshoremen strike situation clears.

CURLEY CALLS MINTON "AN INSECT"

According to Mayor Curley, Telfair Minton of the Loyal Coalition is an "insect," and Senator David I. Walsh is a pessimist, these characterizations being broadcast at the annual banquet of Bishop Cheverus Fourth Degree Assembly of the Knights of Columbus.

The Mayor likewise launched into a tirade against the Ku Klux Klan which, he declared, was made up of "fellow insects of Mr. Minton."

JACKSON LOSES SUIT.

Previously State Treasurer Jackson, representing the Commonwealth, had announced the theft of his evening clothes, necessitating his appearance in street clothes. Senator Walsh, who followed Mr. Jackson, made an address in which he declared that transportation and industrial monopolies fostered the present period of great unrest.

"I have listened to the various speeches made here this evening," the Mayor declared, "from that of the unfrocked representative of the Commonwealth, Mr. Jackson, to that of the junior Senator, and I have observed a direful note of pessimism.

MAYOR NOT ALARMED.

"I want to say that I am not terribly alarmed over the transportation problem nor over the problem of coal which the Senator lays so much stress upon."

The Mayor went on to say: "We are celebrating the name and memory of Christopher Columbus. If that great patron of the order were animated by the spirit of pessimism now rampant in certain quarters he would never have reached a point six miles from the coast of Spain.

"The thing which engages my attention, but which does not alarm me, is such insects as Telfair Minton, and his kindred fellows of the Ku Klux Klan.

"This insect sent to me today a booklet on the cover of which is something about American ideals, but which encloses a most dastardly conglomeration of propaganda in the name of his country which the boys of this nation saved from extinction in the World War. This nation has grown because men of the opposite type to this insect have had their way in the promulgation of free institutions for freemen.

ROME DECORATES COLUMBUS STATUE

Rome, Oct. 12.—The 431st anniversary of the discovery of America was celebrated today by the International Society of Latin Propaganda. The bust of Christopher Coumbus, which is among those of other great Italians placed along the avenues of the historic Pincio, or hill of gardens, was decorated with laurel and an address was delivered by Umbertovichi, president of the society's section of history and art.

GREAT JAP VOLCANO AGAIN IN ERUPTION

Tokio, Oct. 12 (A.P.)—The Aso volcano, 27 miles east of Kumamoto, one of the largest in the world, has been active several days, says the Oita correspondent of the Tokio Asahi. The rumbling can be heard many miles and large quantities of ashes have been falling in nearby villages. The last previous eruption of Aso was in 1894.

MANY DEAD AND WOUNDED IN GERMAN RIOTS

Berlin, Oct. 12. (A.P.—Food riots occurred today in two of Berlin's densely populated sections where the population is without potatoes or meat.

In both instances, according to the police, those responsible for the disorders were unemployed men, accompanied in their raids by many women. When they attempted to protect the food shops the police were attacked by the mobs. Many arrests were made.

Wiesbaden, Hesse Nassau, Oct. 12.—Windows of food stores here were smashed and provisions seized by demonstrators who became enraged when the merchants demanded payment in French francs.

Cologne, Oct. 12.—A number of casualties occurred here when crowds aroused by high prices began attacking and plundering warehouses and food shops and clashed with police. Wagons and automobiles hauling food supplies were attacked and provisions carried away.

Dusseldorf, Oct. 12.—The unemployment demonstration accompanied by rioting and plundering of stores at Solingen, in British-occupied territory, resulted in the killing of two persons and the wounding of seventeen others before the police could disperse the rioters, according to reports received at French headquarters here today.

Belgian troops have evacuated the railway stations at Duisburg, Ruhrort and Hamborn, it is announced by the German newspapers, and the French soldiers have been withdrawn from the North Essen station, reopening traffic over the German-operated line between Essen and unoccupied Germany by way of Dorsten. This will afford better facilities for the provisioning of Essen and the other Ruhr centers by German-operated trains.

Rochester.—Mortimer F. Cooley, Dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture of the University of Michigan, has resigned as president of the American Engineering Council of the Federated American Engineering Societies. Dean Cooley said he retired because of ill health.

parently was the work of a mental defective.

Parts of the body were mutilated, police said. A small towel, knotted around the throat, concealed finger prints. An open handbag containing four pennies lay at the woman's feet and a bureau drawer was open when another roomer entered the room to arouse Miss Phillips at 7 o'clock, and found the body on the floor.

The man sought by the police occupied an adjoining room for a week, and detectives were told he arrived at the house about nine o'clock last night and left about one this morning. An acquaintance at a hospital where the suspect worked said he had told of being the son of a Montreal clergyman.

The acquaintance, who got him the room, was questioned three hours today.

Dr. Schwartz ordered an immediate autopsy. As far as friends knew Miss Phillips never had male callers. They said when she went out she usually visited a picture show with women friends. She had lived at the West 97th street address six years.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company.

AS THE GENTLE DEER seeks pure water, the eagle pure air, the miser pure gold, so Frank A. Munsey seeks purity in the news, and yet, on the front page of his admirable newspaper, your eye meets these soul-searing statements:

"Two die in battle in $15,000 holdup at doors of store."

"Dying duelist drops foe; bystanders shot. Bootleg row."

"Two men dead, woman shot in jealous row."

"Youth arrested, admits seeing killing of Emma Dickson."

WHITHER ARE we drifting down the stream?

It is almost a comfort to read on the same page:

"Kitchen stove explodes, injuring mother and son."

That is sort of old-fashioned and homelike in such times as these.

RUDYARD KIPLING, installed as rector of St. Andrew's University, tells students, "The first use man made of speech, when he evolved from the monkey, was to tell a lie."

If man used his first words to lie, will he use his last discoveries in mechanics, chemistry and physics to commit murder?

DON'T ASK "what is the matter with us?"

We have seen all the nations in the world setting the bad example, killing, and holding up as the most heroic, patriotic of all acts.

When nations set the example, individuals will follow.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN won't let George W. Wickersham talk at the university in favor of the League of Nations. Rules forbid any kind of public speechmaking.

The best argument against the League is a speech in its favor. The young men of Michigan should hear both sides. Hearing both, they would oppose the League.

LLOYD GEORGE knows something about the League and about conditions in Europe.

He tells Canadians: "Britain is the only real League. The British Empire is more effective as a League to preserve peace than the League of Nations that gathers at Geneva."

HE IS RIGHT about the British Empire. But if that organization, directed by the ablest statesmen, exceeds in efficiency Europe's League of Nations, how much is that League exceeded in power by the forty-eight States of the United States? The British Empire is powerful, but scattered. Australia is open to attack by Japan. South Africa and Canada are far from the mother country. Although well able to take care of themselves, they cannot, at once, co-operate with her.

We have forty-eight nations touching each other, boundary to boundary, all united, all on the same part of earth.

AND WHAT IS infinitely more important, we have twice as many white men in our United States Empire as there are in the whole British Empire. And these days white men count.

The United States League of Nations is a good enough league; we don't need to share the troubles, wars, worries and debts of any other.

JUSTICE HERRMAN, learned lawyer, has before him Cora Kershaw, a bricklayer's wife, charged with shoplifting. The learned justice says: "Your husband earns from $12 to $15 a day. There is no excuse for you stealing. The average lawyer's wife, whose husband's income is less, might have some reason for such a crime."

THE LEARNED JUSTICE forgets, perhaps, that bricklayers can only get paid for the

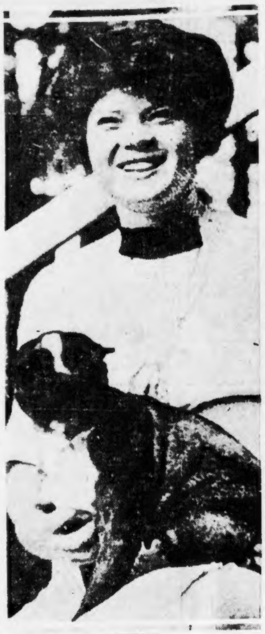
ARE BOTH PHOTOS THOSE OF MRS. HELEN STOKES?



"THEN"

The above photo printed here for the first time is the one which has become famous in the Stokes trial as that identified by Katherine Kramer as Miss Helen Elwood (now Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes). Miss Kramer swore she met Helen Elwell at Bunceton, Mo., nineteen years ago in company with Edgar Wallace, co-respondent in the case.

This is Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes as she appears now, fighting her husband's suit for divorce. She is the mother of two children by him and is only half the age of the millionaire hotel keeper and sportsman. She declares he is trying to ruin her good name.

Stokes Night-Prowled Negro Quarters for 'Evidence'

By JOHN A. MOROSO.
Novelist and Playwright.

New York, Oct. 12 (C.N.S.)—William Earl Dodge Stokes, owner of the Ansonia, rich old connoisseur of horses and women, battle scarred by various and sundry of the latter, was tardy at his divorce trial in the Supreme Court of the State of New York. He did not look at all well as he lowered himself gently to his chair at the end of counsel table, remote from his legal advisors.

A witness of no great consequence had consumed the first hour of the day, things going along rather dully. But when the veteran was seated there came, as if by the order of a stage director—but possible in the regular order of the case, enough ugliness against his pretty little wife to satisfy any man with a desire to stain and smirch.

It was a dark morning outside, with dingy clouds hinting bleak days soon to come. It was dark also inside and with a witness on the stand to testify to the necessary amount of dark indifelity. Lillian Payne, a lodger in Harlem, was offered by William Dodge Stokes in behalf of his cause at the bar.

Stokes, who in years agone, while corresponding with certain troublesome females who are fond of trying to use gay deceivers as targets in pistol practice, called himself an "old cove," pulled up his coat collar and glanced slowly to the right and read where sat his wife and her counsel.

GOLD HAIR PINS

Lillian, questioned by Steuer, declared that Mrs. Stokes had come to Mr. Wallace's apartment twice in the late fall of 1917. She was working there regularly at that time. The first time she left them alone for about ten minutes and the next morning when she made the bed she found two pillows sadly rumpled, gold hairpins in the bed, and in the comb and brush on the chiffonier red hair.

She was positive in her identification of the woman as Mrs. Stokes. There was no evidence of hairpins and red stray hair after the second visit. On both occasions she had only a glance of the woman. In making an affidavit for Stokes before the first trial she had been shown a photograph of Mrs. Stokes. After two years of working elsewhere she identified the picture as that of the woman she had glimpsed in the Wallace apartment. On that identification she swore to the infidelity of the wife and mother.

But it was not her testimony and its subsequent contradictory statements on cross-examinations, its frequent implausibilities, that caught my interest. It was her sworn statement that she was looked up by the plaintiff scion of a fine old farmily

NIGHT PROWLS

His negro detective, Hattie Johnson, with her car, brought in his dark complexioned witnesses and when she did not roll them up in fine style for him, Stokes went out into the night himself and prowled the negro quarters to find them and talk with them, shuffle from his hands to theirs the pictures of his pretty wife and get them to identify her as a woman of evil ways.

Hattie Johnson, colored, private detective for William Earl Dodge Stokes. In a long career as newspaper reporter, short-story writer and novelist of New York life, I have not run into her like until now. One can imagine the old-time, well-mannered negroes living about the Stokes farm down in Kentucky being struck with amazement at the idea of one of the "white folks" playing cheek by jowl with such a creature in such a game. It would be unbelievable to them.

But the New York millionaire invites them in a car to his office and when they are slow to accept his invitations, he goes after them in their haunts.

"Did not Mrs. Stokes tell you," Mr. Untermyer asked a witness, "that Stokes was the vilest man in New York?"

Stokes was listening, his hands placidly folded.

"The vilest man in New York?" Imagine the degree of vileness in the lowest man a city of six million conglomerate people could offer. Stokes did not turn a hair when he heard this question asked. Not a feature twitched!

PICK BEATTY FOR AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

London, Oct. 12.—A rumor that Earl Beatty, first sea lord of the Admiralty, is to be offered the British Ambassadorship at Washington in succession to Sir Auckland Geddes is current in naval circles. According to the Daily Mirror, the story is that the authorities want the Earl out of the way because of his strong opposition to the proposal for a reduction in the pay of the navy in 1924.

SUPPER 'WASN'T READY,' SO BOY FLEES HOME

The prima donna complex generally doesn't show itself until puberty is passed.

Robert Groff is ten years old, and lived, until yesterday, at No. 67 Morris street, East Boston.

Where he is now, the Lynn police are trying to ascertain. The woods near the Lynn poor house are being searched.

The boy was picked up by Patrolman Cornelius Donovan in Central Square, Lynn, when he escaped the wheels of an auto by an agile jump. The officer questioned him and sent him to headquarters.

He blithely gave his name and address, but balked strenuously when the officers tried to send him home. No more home for Robert. Couldn't drive him there. Why, he went home last night and his supper wasn't ready!

His pique was so marked that the Lynn police decided to let him try a night at the Lynn City Home. About midnight Robert made his getaway.

Two weeks ago, the East Boston police say, the lad stepped aboard a New York boat at a Boston wharf. He had no ticket, and offered to work his way, but the captain of the ship returned to Boston with the boy in his charge.

From all this, one would gather that young Robert is an audacious, self-reliant promising little chap. But the facts show that the story has two sides, the other side not to be treated lightly.

Robert's father is a cripple. His mother works at night. The crippled father was too ill to cook yesterday. And that was the cause of his son's resentment.

M. B. METCALF, WOOL MANUFACTURER, DIES

Orange, N. J., Oct. 12.—Manton Bradley Metcalf, wealthy woolen manufacturer, philanthropist and clubman, died at his home today from heart disease. He was a member of the firm of Metcalf Brothers & Co., one of the largest woolen manufacturers in the United States. One of its chief plants is the Wanskuck Mills in Rhode Island. He was a graduate of Brown, class of 1887.

Antwerp, Oct. 12 (I.N.S.)—Nicholas Apostolicos, a Greek, who was arrested on suspicion of stealing a painting from the New York gallery of J. P. WITNESS FACES ARREST

Uproar and Near Fist Fight of Lawyers in the Courtroom; Coercion Charges Made

New York, Oct. 12.—Acting District Attorney Pecora announced today that he would seek the arrest of a witness for W. E. D. Stokes in the retrial of his divorce suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes. It was not definitely announced what charge Mr. Pecora intended to prefer against the witness.

Sensational charges by Joseph A. Thornton, colored janitor, that he was forced under threat of District Attorney Pecora to change his testimony relative to seeing Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes in the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace in 1904, nearly precipitated a fist fight between lawyers in the courtroom.

Thornton was testifying on behalf of Stokes that he was certain in his identification of Mrs. Stokes.

When he was asked by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, if he did not admit to Pecora that he had made an honest mistake and that he had never seen Mrs. Stokes, the janitor replied that such a statement was obtained from him by threats when he was summoned to the district attorney's office in March, 1922, shortly after the termination of the first divorce suit in Mrs. Stokes' favor.

Besides Pecora, Thornton named Ferdinand Morton, who was an assistant district attorney at the time and is now President of the Civil Service Commission, and Stanley Richter, another assistant, who is a son-in-law of Untermeyer.

After Thornton told his story of his examination in the district attorney's office, Untermeyer asked Richter, who was in the court room, to stand up to be identified by the witness. Untermeyer then asked Justice Mahoney if he would entertain a complaint against Thornton by the district attorney.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Stokes, jumped to his feet and shouted:

"There will be a complaint against you, also."

Untermyer, also excited, replied that Steuer's theatrical performances were becoming boresome. Steuer fired the parting shot:

"Well, I don't put my son-in-law in office for such a purpose."

FIST FIGHT AVERTED

Richter rose from his seat beside his wife at the counsel table and threatened to beat up Steuer, who waved his arms and yelled:

"When are you going to beat me up? Who are you going to beat up?" Attendants stepped between the two belligerents and forced them to take their seats.

"I'll have the court officers place you all in custody," said Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, tossing aside the velvet glove that has covered the hands of steel beneath. "I'm growing tired of this constant wrangling." And he meant what he said.

"Hereafter I'll have order in this court," said Justice Mahoney. "You will ask what questions are proper to be asked and conduct your examinations in an orderly manner."

Steuer declared his intention of ascertaining how the District-Attorney's office became mixed up in the case.

Pecora, Morton and Richter will take the stand next week to refute the janitor's testimony.

TALKS IN LOUD TONE

Thornton is heavy set with a close cropped mustache and sullen when hard pressed. He gave his answers in a loud tone after long deliberation. Asked by Untermyer to state his occupation, he said grandiloquently that he was an engineer.

Q—You mean you feed the boilers?

A—Yes.

Q—Do you now say that this lady, Mrs. Stokes, was the woman you

30 FIGHT FOR LIFE AFTER SHIP SINKS

Key West, Fla., Oct. 12.—Thirty members of the crew of the City of Everett, a tanker, which sank stern first off the Florida coast, are believed to be fighting for their lives in open boats in a stormy sea. They are being searched for by vessels which answered the Everett's distress call.

The tanker, owned by A. J. Kaplan of New York, foundered in a heavy sea off Tortugas. She displaced 2,595 tons, and measured 346 feet in length and 42 feet at the beam.

What is believed to have been the final chapter of the Everett was received through the air.

"Going down stern first."

The ship's radio operator ended his final appeal by sending out S. O. S. calls.

The Comal of the Mallory line, 75 miles away, headed for the Everett, while the Saukee, a revenue cutter, steamed out of this harbor.

When the Comal and Saukee arrived at the position given by the Everett, only a small amount of debris covered the high running sea.

EGG 'REVOLT' AT HARVARD FRESHMEN DEMAND HAM

What, Harvard freshmen demanded today, are two cackles without a grunt?

"A gastronomical error," is the answer. They arose in a body and demanded that their breakfast eggs be accompanied by ham, or that some main dish other than eggs be substituted.

The boiled egg may be a delicacy, they declared, but if it appears each morning unaccompanied it becomes monotonous. Nine hundred men are crowded into dining halls designed to fit 400 better, and the menu has been cut considerably. Eggs take up little space.

"If we had some ham, we would have ham and eggs," they voted, and posted a notice to that effect. hTe egg rebellion temporarily has been nipped by an order that notices may not be posted without permission.

"We were egged into it," they informed the proctors.

RAIDERS SIEZE $10,000 IN DOPE GUNS COWER 100 CAFE PATRONS

New York, Oct. 12.—One hundred patrons of a cafe in the heart of Brooklyn's Latin quarter were held at the point of pistols in the hands of Federal and police narcotic squads today in an early morning raid which netted seven prisoners.

A cooperage nearby, where the raiders discovered $10,000 worth of narcotics, is alleged to have been the distributing base for the most active "dope ring" in Brooklyn.

The authorities reported taking over the telephones of the cafe and receiving ten calls for narcotics while the raid was in progress. Other officers were showered with bricks from the roofs of adjoining buildings when they went into the cafe palm garden to search for contraband. Police reserves were summoned to protect the thirty raiding officials.

COOLIDGE TO ANNOUNCE STAND ON RIGID DRY ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Coolidge plans to accept the dry end of the prohibition argument and will shortly announce that he is 100 per cent. in favor of the most rigid enforcement.

The occasions will be the good citizenship meeting in Washington this week and the President's conference of Governors here October 20.

On both occasions the President in person or by proxy will make it clear that he takes the same stand as the late President Harding.

Unusual interest if felt in the forthcoming announcements because they will be the first definite stand on a controversial issue taken by the new President, with the exception of that in opposition to cancellation of foreign debts.

4 BOYS CONFESS TO MURDER OF AGED HERMIT 2 YEARS AGO

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 12.—The two-year-old mystery of how Henry Gerling, 86 years old, recluse, came to his death in his cabin at Watervliet, near here, has been solved by the alleged confessions of four youths, who, according to Sheriff George C. Bridgman, say they killed Gerling, March 31, 1921. The boys, who are being held, are Alvin Keller, 18; Reinhold Treichel, 16; Leon Long, 15, and Howard Long, 14, all of Watervliet.

The reputed confessions say Gerling was struck on the head, then bound and gagged. Robbery is given as the motive of the crime, but the boys are said to have admitted they were unable to discover Gerling's reputed hoard.

PLAN BERLIN TO ARGENTINE 5-DAY DIRIGIBLE FLIGHTS

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 12.—The linking of Berlin and Buenos Aires by a five-day dirigible mail and passenger service is the object of negotiations which have been under way for some time between powerful German and Argentine interests, according to Captain Anton Heinen, German Zeppelin expert and pilot of the navy's Shenandoah, formerly the ZR-1, who said the plans were well advanced.

The plans call for two huge airships, nearly twice as large as the Shenandoah, capable of carrying 150 passengers with mail and express, he declared. The trips between Berlin and Buenos Aires would be made in less than one-fourth of the time occupied by steamers.

689 PARDON CASES IN YEAR BURDEN THE PRESIDENT

Washington, Oct. 12.—Burdens placed upon the President in considering applications for pardons was shown in an annual report of James A. Finch, pardon attorney, made public today by the Department of Justice.

During the past fiscal year, the report said the chief executive acted upon 689 pardon cases, an increase of more than 20 per cent. over the previous year.

Prisoners applying for pardons apparently stand less than an even chance of winning executive clemency, the average of denials last year being 54 per cent.

EXPLOSION SHAKES MOSCOW; MANY KILLED AND INJURED

Moscow, Oct. 12.—At least twelve persons were killed and several score injured by a terrific explosion today in a hunting goods store on the Neglianni Prospekt, one of the principal streets of Moscow.

Two buildings were shattered by the shock and debris and exploding cartridges and cartridge belts were hurled among passersby. Above the store crowded apartments were located.

WEEKS IS ANGRY AT ATTACK

Considers Auto Man's Charges Sufficiently Crave to Lay Before the President

Washington, Oct. 12.—Secretary Weeks carried into today's Cabinet meeting the statement by Henry Ford assailing the Secretary for his action in the sale of the Gorgas steam power plant—a part of the Muscle Shoals properties—to the Alabama Power Company.

Ford declared political influence, working through the secretary, had prevented him from obtaining the properties.

Officials close to Weeks indicated he considered the statement sufficiently grave to take up with the President.

Mr. Coolidge is known to be thoroughly in accord with the action taken by the War Department in selling the Gorgas plant to the Alabama Power Company for $3,472,487.

Henry Ford John W. Weeks

The position of the President, as it has been stated at the White House, is that Ford be given every opportunity to buy and lease the Muscle Shoals properties and that his offer, still before Congress, has not been affected by the sale of the Gorgas project.

Mr. Coolidge, after the recent sale of the Gorgas plant, told visitors the government did not regard the plant as essential to the purposes which Ford had stated he had in view in acquiring Muscle Shoals. As the President put it, the administration feels that the Gorgas plant bore about the same relation to Muscle Shoals as the stem does to an apple after the fruit has fallen from the tree.

Administration officials, including the President, have asserted that Mr. Ford could build an auxiliary steam plant for less than the three and one-half million dollars represented in the Gorgas plant sale, which sum, it has been announced, would be credited to Mr. oFrd on his $5,000,000 bid for the entire property.

The view of the administration is that the Ford offer still is before Congress and that body must determine the matter.

DUKE OF YORK'S CAR HITS TRUCK

New York, Oct. 12.—Secretary of the Navy Denby, who is recovering at Orthopedic Hospital from an operation on his right leg, the achilles tendon of which had been severed, will be on crutches, with his foot in a plaster cast, for two months, Mrs. Denby, wife of the secretary, said today.

The secretary passed a restless night, but improved today.

FORMER STAGE BUTTERFLY BARES SOUL IN STORY

FORSAKEN BY SWEETHEARTS SEEKS SOLACE IN DRUGS

Clare Russell was once popular along Broadway's White Way as Helene French. As Mrs. Hays Fernald she was once the daughter-in-law of Bert M. Fernald, a former Governor of Maine and now United States Senator. She is in jail in New York for using cocaine. She was arrested on an L platform. In jail she has written for the Boston American the story of her fall. She bares her soul. Today the second installment of that story is given. Read this intimate story, continued from Thursday, of one who fell from fame to the depths.

By HELENE FRENCH

Different was my luxurious apartment from the cell I share now with another girl who has gone the same way. And I have worn this same dress for months.

I was so happy. Then I learned I was to be a mother. I was rapturously happy. I had always wanted children. I was singing all that day waiting for George.

I was sure he would marry me. We were planning to go out to our bungalow in a few weeks.

When George came in, I threw my arms around him. I told him our secret. He flung himself away from me.

And he rushed out without kissing me good-bye. I have never seen him since. I was too proud then to beg him for help. I would now.

Then I married a young naval officer, Lieutenant Raymond S. Falls, and went to Portsmouth, Va., to live with his mother.

HELPED FATHER

During that time I had bought a large home in Jersey City for my father. He had married again, this time to a woman with five daughters and one son. Times had been hard for them. I had furnished the home and had bought the food, clothes and coal. My father knew all about George and accepted his money.

Now that he was no longer getting money from me he wrote my mother-in-law with whom I was living. A divorce resulted.

I have forgiven my father for that, but I will never be able to understand how he could do that to his daughter, under any circumstances. Just a short time ago I wanted some clothes and books of mine that I was keeping there and he wouldn't let me have them. He ignored my pleas for help.

RETURNS TO STAGE

Once more I married. Meanwhile I had gone back to the stage and became even more successful than before with the Shubert's and in the Follies. Once more life for me was a song.

I had findly learned enough, through bitter experience, so that I thought I could take care of myself. I met a young West Point graduate.

At last I thought I had found true love. But again I was to be bitterly mistaken.

We were married in the Philippines. I was prosperous again and lavished money on him. I bought him a car, and furnished our home luxuriously.

Then I took malaria and yellow fever.

BECOMES ADDICT

I was in a hospital for months and there, physicians started me in the drug habit. They did not mean to, of course, but they gave me drugs continually.

When I came out my husband boasted to me that he was in love with a Japanese woman. We came back to the United States, and he discarded me. Another divorce. He is at Fort Bliss, Texas, now, and not only will not help me, but has refused to give me silver, an automobile, jewelry, a fur coat and other things of mine.

I came back to New York. My spirit was broken at last. I drifted about aimlessly for weeks. My heart was broken because the man I thought was the finest in the world had betrayed me.

And then in some way George found I was back. Time and time again he had detectives try to frame me. He had me driven from one hotel to another. In each hotel I would suddenly be called upon to leave and would have to leave part of my clothes for the bill.

BITTER EXPERIENCE

The most bitter experience of my life and the one that put me here, happened not long ago.

I was at a hotel. A man forced his way into my room. He said he was a detective and boasted to me of his record. I screamed and called the clerk, who laughed and hung up the receiver.

That destroyed the last bit of my self-respect. I was put out of that hotel a few days later, and have been wandering about since.

Day by day I have been taking more and more dope.

I will ask the judge when my case comes up to put me under suspended sentence. Then, in clothes that are fit to wear, I will get a job in a show. After I have put some money aside, I will voluntarily take the cure.

And I have the will, the determination, and the experience to make good.

I know it, I know it, I know it.

Son Here Inherits Gypsy Chief's Estate

Chief Louis Mitchell, head of a gypsy tribe, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., and left an estate of $50,000 to his son, Wando of Boston.

But Wando cannot be found and a communication from the Brooklyn authorities to the Boston police states that he must appear at once to claim the estate or it will be otherwise disposed of.

The Boston police are, therefore, searching the city for Wando.

GIRL 'GLAD' SHE SLEW STUDENT IN LOVE ROW

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—Harry Kanbernigale, a student at a Chiropractic school here, was fatally shot today on the street in West Philadelphia by a young woman.

Catherine Miller, formerly of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is under arrest charged with the shooting, which the police said resulted from a lovers' quarrel. The authorities will lodge a murder charge against her.

Four shots were fired into the student's body. He was rushed to a hospital and an operation performed immediately, but he died a few hours later.

Reports from Wilkesbarre quoted a sister of Miss Miller as having said that the young woman had been working in Philadelphia and had been paying Kanbernigale's way through college. The sister, Mrs. Anna Cardello, declared that Miss Miller recently had learned the student intended to marry another girl.

For several hours after she was locked up, Miss Miller delined to discuss the shooting but later, according to the police, she admitted having done it. They quoted her as follows:

"Harry told me Saturday he was through with with and for me to go shoot myself. I went to his cottage, then went to my room and got the pistol. I met Harry as he was leaving the school and we walked up the street. He told me he didn't want anything more to do with me, and I'm glad I shot him."

French Deputy Goes on Stage; Hooted by Audience

Paris, Oct. 12.—Deputy Charles Bernard, a prominent member of Parliament, who made his debut in vaudeville at a theatre here with a speech on politics, was greeted with cat calls and hisses and was not allowed to continue.

"Tell it to Parliament—You are no comedian," shouted the audience at the deputy.

Bernard announced, however, that he will complete his engagement.

ARREST NEAR IN NEW DEATH MYSTERY

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The mystery of the death of Mrs. Gertie Gorman Webb, $2,000,000 heiress, at the Westchester-Biltmore Club on September 25, was declared today to be near solution.

While neither District Attorney Rowland nor Coroner Fitzgerald would discuss the case, one in close touch with the progress of the investigation said:

"The mystery of Mrs. Webb's death is close to solution. This solution may be publicly announced before the grand jury resumes calling witnesses on Monday.

The discoveries of the officials, it was learned elsewhere, are directly connected with a certain phase of the bitter fight that has developed over Mrs. Webb's estate.

KILLS UNCLE, GAGS AUNT, SHOOTS SELF

Redwood City, Cal., Oct. 12.—Robbery was the motive which prompted James Moore, 46, of Oakland, Cal., to kill his uncle, James H. Doolittle, 65, and bind and gag his aunt, Mrs. Doolittle, and J. Carroll Doolittle his cousin, in the Doolittle home according to disclosures by a police investigation. Moore is in a critical condition with a bullet wound in the back of his head, caused when he shot himself as officers sought to arrest him. The elder Doolittle was struck over the head with a hatchet after he had been tied to a chair.

bricks they lay. A lawyer, in a perfectly "legal" way, can get and keep for himself part of what somebody else steals. A lawyer defending the bricklayer's wife for stealing might take half of what she stole in a highly ethical and legal manner. To compare a lawyer with a bricklayer isn't accurate.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., has given $500,000 to the Zoological Society, promising to duplicate that amount. E. S. Harkness gave $100,000, the estate of Mrs. F. F. Thompson $50,000.

The work of the Zoological Society is done scientifically. It does not merely collect elephants to amuse children and monkeys to rebuke men. It carries on admirable, permanent, scientific work. In days to come not one of the specimens in the Zoo will be left alive on this earth. It will have gone to join the carnivorous dinosaur, great auk and the dodo. This is the time to gather information.

BOOTLEG CUSTOMERS, pouring inside of themselves stuff the bootleggers sell, will be interested in the latest, which is a mixture of cocaine with bootleg whiskey.

While the bad alcohol eats out the lining of the stomach and intestines, the cocaine, added, makes the bootleg customer a drug addict.

The idea of the bootleggers, of course, is to make sure of a customer by giving him something he cannot get anywhere else, and that he must have when he gets used to it.

But what is the idea of the customer that drinks the stuff—or any stuff like it?

ATTORNEY KELLEY OF BOSTON SUES ROTHSTEIN FOR $50,000

New York, Oct. 12.—Suit to recover $53,000 from Arnold Rothstein was filed in Supreme Court by William J. Kelly, an attorney, of Boston.

Arnold Rothstein

The complaint, filed in the county clerk's office on behalf of Kelly, by his counsel, Bergen Hartman, alleges Kelly was retained as counsel for Rothstein and performed services in that capacity for Rothstein between September, 1920, and October, 1921, the reasonable value of which Kelly places at $50,000.

Besides, Kelly says, he expended $3,000 on the litigation he was engaged on in behalf of Rothstein.

The papers disclose that Rothstein was served with the summons and complaint at No. 30 West Fifty-seventh street.

COOLIDGE WORKS ON TIME SCHEDULE, SAVING STRENGTH

Washington, Oct. 12.—While public discussion continues as to why Presidents break down under the strain of their duties and as to means of relieving this strain, C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, has after a month in office, evolved one plan for saving the strength of his chief.

Engagements for conferences with the President are now limited to the forenoon, and the whole afternoon is reserved for study of reports and details of the problems and occasional conferences with Cabinet members. The system so far is said to have worked very well.

President Coolidge's daily working schedule, starts at eight thirty o'clock when he arrives at his office. He first goes over his mail and morning papers.

The first callers having scheduled engagements arrive about 10 o'clock. The final half hour before luncheon at one o'clock is taken up with the reception of delegations and the hundreds of individuals who call daily to pay their respects. About three-quarters of an hour are taken for luncheon and generally by two o'clock the President is back at his desk. He leaves the executive office shortly before six o'clock.

BONES OF BIG CAMEL FOUND IN NEBRASKA

New York, Oct. 12 (P).—The skull and jaws of a gigantic camel have been discovered by the Albert Thompson expedition in Nebraska, it was announced today by Professor W. O. Matthew of the American Museum of Natural History.

Mr. Thompson, who now is on his way to New York after six months of excavation in the noted Snake Creek fossil quarries of Western Nebraska, has shipped the museum eleven cases of fossils, which include the tooth of an ape, the skulls and bones of three-toed horses and specimens of other prehistoric vertebrates.

"A very interesting ape tooth, the only one known to the new world was discovered," said Professor Matthew.

RUSH OF WORKERS TO AMERICA CAUSES LAMENT IN BRITAIN

London, Oct. 12.—Laments that Great Britain is being drained of her best craftsmen because of unemployment here and the superior attractions of the United States labor market are becoming frequent in the press.

This loss is said to be causing the greatest concern to employers and labor leaders, not only because the skill of these workers is necessary to the welfare of British industry, but also because their departure throws an ever-increasing number of unskilled workers into the ranks of the unemployed.

CHARGE $5,000,000 OIL CO. MISMANAGED; ASK RECEIVER

St. Louis, Oct. 12.—Petition for an ancillary receiver to take charge of the local assets of the Indiahoma Refining Company which has a [illegible] stock of $5,000,000 outstanding was filed in Federal Court here [illegible].

The petition alleges "gross mismanagement" and was filed by trustees of the estate of Gustav Wamsganz, who held $3,750 of the capital stock of the company.

The general offices of the company are in Oklahoma City, Okla.

3 DEAD, SEVERAL SCALDED AS SHIP'S BOILER EXPLODES

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 12 (INS)—With three men dead and several badly scalded from a boiler explosion, the British steamer Daghild, is nearing this port today. Efforts to communicate with the ship by radio from the local navy yard have proved unavailing since the receipt of the first distress call yesterday.

The explosion took place near Lewes, Del. The tug Juno, with Dr. William Hickman of this city, was despatched at once. The Daghild left here yesterday, en route for Sydney, Cape Breton, in ballast.

NEW PAINT FOR SHIP ANNOYS BARNACLES

Washington, Oct. 12.—Ships without barnacles are in prospect for the near future. Oysters, clams, bivalves, crustaceans, periwinkles and their ilk will soon be invited to taste a new ship bottom paint being perfected in the Edgewood Arsenal by the chemical warfare service of the United States Army, and its effect is said to be to knock a barnacle cold on contact.

JAZZ ON SYMPHONY CONCERTS WITHIN 10 YEARS, HE PREDICTS

New York, Oct. 12 (C.N.S.)—Jazz is losing its appeal for the masses, but increasing in popularity among the "cultured classes" of Europe and America, Hugo Riesenfeld, composer and conductor, said today.

"Twenty years from now only high brows will appreciate jazz," he said. "The English ballad and other simple tunes are enchanting the populace now."

Admitting jazz would probably find a place within 10 years on the best Symphony programs, Mr. Riesenfeld said that dance music enabling people to express their "primitive love of dancing with the minimum of mental effort" was holding its popularity.

HEARING MARKED BY UPROAR AND NEAR-FIGHT IN COURT

saw with Wallace in 1914? A—That's what I say.

IDENTIFIED BY PHOTO

Q—When did you first come to that conclusion? A—Some years later, after, about seven years after I saw the woman. Stokes came around to my house and showed me some pictures and asked me if I could identify any of them as his wife. I said I could. I identified one as the woman I saw enter the building with Wallace.

Q.—Did you testify before the district attorney that Mrs. Stokes was not that woman and that you had made an honest mistake? A.—I may have, but if I did it was after they made me.

Q.—What do you mean? A.—Can I tell my story?

Untermyer: "Go ahead."

GRILLED BY PROSECUTOR

"Well, in March, 1922, I got a subpoena to come to Mr. Pecora's office. He sent me upstairs to Mr. Richter and another man. They questioned me and after an hour they said: 'We can't do much with him; we will call in one of his kind.' So they sent for Mr. Morton, a colored gentleman who cross-examined me for a while.

"After lunch I was examined some more, always about being mistaken about identifying Mrs. Stokes. They wanted me to say I had made a mistake."

Untermyer: "Isn't it a fact that all Mr. Pecora, who was acting district attorney at the time, said to you was:

ADVISED TO CHANGE

"'Now, Mr. Thornton, I have sent for Mrs. Stokes, and I want you to take a good look at her, to make a study of the features, and then tell me if you had ever seen her before.' And that you did scrutinize Mrs. Stokes and said that you had made an honest mistake? A.—I don't remember it that way. Mr. Morton took me down to Mr. Pecora nad told him that I was a hard nut to crack. They then both advised me to say that I was mistaken, that this woman I saw with Wallace was some other woman.

Both Mr. Pecora and Mr. Morton said there was no use for me to get myself into trouble for Mr. Stokes. Mr. Morton said that Mrs. Stokes might have gone to Wallace's apartment, but that it was best for me to say different.

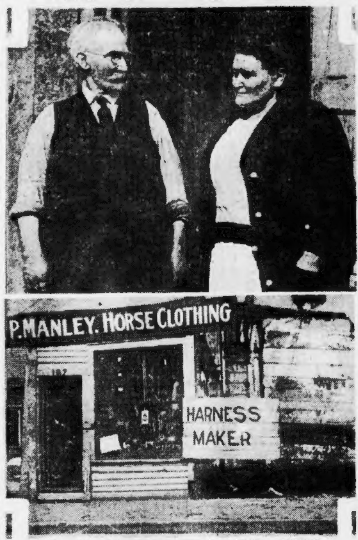
Thornton's cross-examination was to be resumed next Monday.

Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes today was on her way to Missouri with an order calling for examination of witnesses in Bunceton and Booneville. She was accompanied by Isadore Shapiro, one of her counsels, and hearings were to be held in the Missouri towns late today and Saturday.

In securing the order Mrs. Stokes made charges of perjury against Alice Mills and Catherine Cramer who earlier in the week, testified that they had seen the wife of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel man, in Bunceton, Mo., in company with Edgar T. Wallace, in 1904.

The Missouri examination was to be conducted by Roy D. Williams, of Booneville, who will take the testimony of Martin Wallace, A. A. Wallace, Nannie Wallace, Wilbur Wallace, Louise Wallace, Nelson Leonard, Mrs. Arthur Wallace and Miss Louise Harriman. These prospective witnesses are all members of the family of Edgar T. Wallace, the mining engineer, whom Stokes has named as co-respondent in his suit for divorce.

FIGHTING "BUNKER HILL" OF THEIR OWN



"PAT" MANLEY, WIFE AND SHOP

Charlestown harness maker refuses to give up the lease of the Rutherford avenue shop in which he has worked for thirty years until his price is paid by the realtors who have razed all the adjoining property.

CHARLESTOWN MAN IN BATTLE TO HOLD SHOP

Rutherford avenue between Benedict and Chapman streets, Charlestown, is as bare as was Mother Hubbard's famed cupboard with one exception.

That is a tiny one-story store in which a kindly faced man sits fourteen hours a day mending harness.

He is Pat Manley, dubbed "the harness man."

His tiny store has become "Fort Manley."

Defying Charlestown, contractors, Boston and the world Pat Manley is sitting "pretty" today while progress attempts to remove him that improved buildings may grow up on Rutherford avenue.

They've been endeavoring for several weeks to "Get Pat out," but he's still there.

He's been on the avenue for 30 years. Nine months ago tenants in every house and store on the avenue between the two streets were ordered to vacate. All but the "harness man" obeyed. Down came the buildings.

But Pat hummed and sewed harness. Didn't he have a three years' lease on his place with one and one half years to run? He certainly did.

And until they pay Pat Manley his price to relinquish that lease he stays where he is. He says so. And hence the neighbors have dubbed the shop "Fort Manley."

Helping hold the "fort" is Ellen Manley, Pat's good wife, and occasionally some of their five children. They live at No. 2 Linwood place, Charlestown.

ATTWOOD LEFT ENTIRE ESTATE TO WOMAN

By the will of J. Lorenzo Attwood of West Somerville, Miss Mildred B. Hutchins inherits his entire estate, to the exclusion of two brothers and a sister, Stephen and Frank B. Attwood of West Minot, Me., and Mrs. Martha Lowe of Brockton.

Miss Hutchins is also executrix of the will. She lives in the Attwood residence at No. 12 Park avenue, Somerville.

"I have lived with the Attwoods since I was a little girl," Miss Hutchins said today. "My parents had a large family and so they let me go to live with my mother's sister, who was Mrs. Attwood. Mr. Attwood had no children and it was generally understood among his brothers and sisters that the estate would come to me.

"Mrs. Attwood died twelve years ago.

"His family have plenty of money of their own. That is why they are specifically cut out of the will." The will places no valuation on the estate. Attwood, who was employed in the superintendent's department of Mt. Auburn Cemetery, died October 2 at the age of seventy-five. He lived in West Somerville forty-five years, and was a native of Maine.

KU KLUX PLACARD ON LYNN CHURCH

Patrolman Thomas Ryan reported to Lynn police headquarters that while patroling his beat on Union street, he found a placard tacked to the door of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church.

The placard was headed with a hooded rider on a horse. The sketch was followed by the words: "Let's all join the K. K. K. Let us all be Americans today, tomorrow and forever." It was signed "K. K. K."

"Every Man Needs 2 Women," Starts Divorce Suit

New York, Oct. 12.—"Every man needs two women, one for beauty, the other for intellect. Unfortunately you have neither quality."

This alleged declaration of Albert Levin, sugar broker, connected with Arnold Dorr & Co., caused the parting of their marital ways, says Mrs. Ethel Levin, who has filed suit for separation in Brooklyn.

The husband denies ever having made such a statement. He submitted affidavits of good character from sugar brokers.

AIRMEN DEDICATE WESTFIELD GROUND

Westfield, Oct. 12 (INS).—Camp Bartlett, a training field during the war, was dedicated as an aviation field today. It is the first airdrome in the western part of the State. Airplanes from Boston Army Squadrons dedicated the field and gave flying exhibitions.

4 HURT N AUTO CRASH IN THE BACK BAY

Four persons, two of them women, were taken to the City Hospital following an automobile collision today at Massachusetts and Commonwealth avenues.

Joseph Barrett, forty-three years old, of No. 60 Leverett street, West End, is expected to die. In addition to a fractured skull he received wounds to the thigh and right hand.

Mrs. Rebecca Gorin, her husband Hyman Gorin, and their eighteen-year-old daughter Bella, were the others hurt. They were passengers in the automobile driven by Barrett.

Arthur Sharp, Jr., of No. 27 Walker street, Taunton, operator of the other machine, was arrested on charge of being drunk. Police say the car is owned by his father.

SIX RULES for making
BETTER COFFEE

Keep your Coffee fresh
It loses strength and aroma when exposed to the air. Keep it in a tight container.

Measure carefully
Measure the water as well as the Coffee. Use plenty of Coffee—at least a tablespoonful to the cup. Guessing usually means a poor cup of Coffee.

Use grounds only once
Don't waste fresh Coffee by adding it to old grounds. Used Coffee grounds are of no more value in making Coffee than ashes in building a fire.

Boil the water
Be sure it is boiling. Then pour over the Coffee. This makes the kind of Coffee which scientists have found to be the best.

Serve at once
Many a pot of perfect Coffee has been ruined by letting it cool. If you must delay serving, keep the Coffee piping hot, but never let finished Coffee boil. Re-cooking injures the flavor.

Scour the Coffee-pot
It is not enough to give the pot a hurried rinse and set it away to dry. Scour it carefully every time it is used.

COFFEE
-the universal drink

The planters of Sao Paulo, Brazil, who produce more than half of all the Coffee used in the United States, are conducting this educational work in co-operation with the leading Coffee merchants of the United States.

GRADUATE PROTESTS HARVARD DRINKING SONG

'GLORIFIES JOYS OF TIPPLING'

Delcevare King, Social Worker, Says Sentiment Is Hostile to Prohibition

"Johnny Harvard," which he terms the "most drinking of drinking songs," is declared by Delvevare King, Harvard alumnus and social service worker, "to come pretty near scoffing at the prohibition law."

The "University Double Quartet" sang "Johnny Harvard" at the Harvard-Oxford debate, and Mr. King declares that was a great mistake. He said as much in a letter to Dallas Blair-Smith, manager of the Harvard Glee Club.

But Dallas Blair-Smith felt the objection was—well, he didn't say what he felt, but he did say that the "University Double Quartet has no connection with the Glee Club, and that it cannot in reality be properly referred to as a Harvard organization.

ABSURD, SAYS CRIMSON.

"Absurd, absurd," said the Harvard Crimson, which expressed the editorial opinion that Mr. King is a trifle too critical. Furthermore, the Harvard Crimson does not think it necessary to ostracize the "University Double Quartet."

Said the Crimson, "a ban now on all such jolly old songs would be much like the absurd ban on the teaching of German in this country during the War."

Harvard students, commenting on the editorial in the Crimson, point out that the War lasted only a few years, and then speak of prohibition with a knowing nod.

HEAVY BASS REFRAIN.

"Johnny Harvard," a jolly song with a lilting air, sings the praises of the wassail bowl and the flowing wine, with the bass coming in heavy on

"Fill her up a bumper to the brim,
"Then drink, drink, drink, drink."

and ends strong on the Omaresqque lines.

"'Tis wine divine,
That brings us jollity."

The song, as sung by the "University Double Quartet," and objected to by Mr. King:

Oh, here's to Johnny Harvard, fill him up a full glass,
Fill him up a full glass, to his name and fame,
And at the same time don't forget his true love;
Fill her up a bumper to the brim.
Then drink, drink, drink, drink,
Pass the wine cup free,
Drink, drink, drink, drink.
Jolly boys are we,
Free from care and despair,
What care we;
'Tis wine divine,
That brings us jollity.

CALLS IT BAD TASTE.

"Now that prohibition is here, the singing of such a song on such an occasion seems to me clearly bad taste," protests Mr. King.

"The judicial section of the American Bar Association has unanimously issued a warning to the American people appealing for reverence for law and its enforcement, and pointing out the evils that come from scoffing at the prohibition law.

"To glorify the joys of drinking, and to urge 'drink, drink, drink,' seems to me to come pretty near scoffing at the prohibition law. It certainly tends to create an atmosphere hostile to reverence for this law and its enforcement."

CRADLE SLIPS; LAUNCH TENDER AHEAD OF TIME

Ten minutes before the scheduled hour for the launching of the destroyer tender Whitney at the Charlestown Navy Yard the cradle which held the vessel on the ways began slipping and the officials in charge were compelled to give the order which sent the new boat sliding down into the water.

Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer was in the midst of his address when the order came, and Mrs. Roderick Tower, sponsor of the vessel stepped hurriedly forward and smashed a bottle of grape juice across the Whitney's bow.

A prayer by the navy yard chaplain had to be omitted. Congressman Tague and several other officials who had planned to arrive promptly at the hour set reached the yard after the Whitney had been launched.

The Whitney is named after the late William C. Whitney, Secretary of the Navy in Cleveland's first Cabinet.

TRAIN BANDITS KILL 4; FLEE INTO HILLS

Redding, Cal., Oct. 12.—The wooded peaks of the Siskiyous on the border between Oregon and California were searched today for a band of robbers who held up a Southern Pacific train, slew three trainmen and the mail clerk and caused injuries to about a score of passengers whereby they forced their way into the mail car.

They got no loot.

Posses from Oregon and California counties are seeking them. The posses include guardsmen.

From all indications, the trainmen were shot down in cold blood because they recognized the robbers, whom, officials believe, are former railroad employes or men familiar with the operation of trains and with the country around Tunnel 13, seventeen miles south of Ashland, Oregon, where the holdup took place.

The mail clerk, Flynn E. Dougherty, thirty-five, of Ashland, had no chance for his life. He barricaded himself in his car and the robbers either threw a fused explosive through a window or set off a blast at the door.

Trainmen rushed to the engine and found S. L. Bates, fifty-five, of Dunsmuir, Calif., the engineer, and Marvin Seng, twenty-three, of Ashland, Ore., the fireman, both dead. Coyle O. Johnson, forty, of Ashland, brakeman, later died from four bullet wounds in his stomach.

Scientists to Seek Secret of Electric Eel's Power

New York, Oct. 12 (C.N.S.) Science was preparing today to learn from the electric eel at the Bronx Zoo its secret for generating electricity, and measure the power of the current it releases.

Delicate instruments will measure the voltage, amperage and duration of the eel's electric force.

Although only of momentary duration, the current is said to be strong enough to stun a horse.

A keeper whose arm touched the eel's tank just as the current was flowing through the water is said to have received a severe shock.

COP LASTS ONE DAY RUNNING ELEVATOR

Another bedtime story:

Once upon a time, dear children, Captain Skillings of the City Hall Avenue Station, known as 'The Skipper" wanted to catch some bootleggers who were making a lot of money in a big office building in his precinct.

They were bold bad bootleggers and the booze was bad bad booze.

So the captain conceived a clever idea. It was a real clever idea.

Taking one of his valiant policemen aside he said,

"Oscar you get a job in that building as an elevator man and the first time those bad bad bootleggers sell any of their bad bad booze you grab it and run direct to me."

And Oscar worked one day. At nightfall he wended his way through the city streets. Behind him stole the bad bad bootleggers who sold the bad bad booze. And when Oscar walked right into the City Hall avenue station they said "Ah-h-h-h-h."

And next day Oscar didn't have any job as an elevator man and the bad bad bootleggers who sold the bad bad booze continued to sell it.

SMALL TOWN BOY HAS BIG OPPORTUNITY, SAYS MAGNATE

HIS CHANCE FOR SUCCESS GREATER THAN CITY YOUTH'S

The small town boy, according to A. J. Brosseau, prominent member of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, has a better chance for success than the boy born with the supposed advantages of the big city.

Born and raised on a farm, Mr. Brosseau, who is president of the Mack Trucks, Inc., is an example of his theory that the opportunities for success in the small town are unlimited.

"Start to learn your trade at home," says Mr. Brosseau. "When the right time comes you will be called to the city and asked to take charge of the work instead of wearing out your only pair of boots looking for a job.

MANY IGNORANT.

"It is a sad thing to see the number of young boys without practical experience who feel that the city is the easy road to wealth and happiness. Many of these poor fellows," he added, "are so ignorant they believe a ticket to New York is all that is necessary to become the head of a bank or president of a large corporation.

"It is pitiful to see them pinched and hungry looking, disappointed with life and feeling that they have been badly treated by a hard world. The same boys, if they had remained at home, could have gained a start in a small way and worked up to success gradually."

Mr. Brosseau spoke of the loneliness and disappointment that overtakes young inexperienced workers in the big cities.

SHOULD STAY AT HOME.

"The best place to learn a business is where the opportunities are most frequent and the competition is not overwhelming. The large cities are only for the finished product, not for the boy who has got to work up."

Discussing the greater chances for young men in small towns and villages, Mr. Brosseau said, "A boy who begins to work and make his mark in business needs a home to come back to at night. In the big cities where he is unknown there is only the loneliness of a boarding or rooming house. There are no familiar faces in the evening and no old friends to sympathize in the trials of the day.

"In the small town, on the other hand," he continued enthusiastically, "there is always the circle of friends who take a personal interest in the boy's progress.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ADVICE.

"Where business methods are more leisurely and there is more time, the employer is able to keep in touch with his men and in many cases give them the benefit of his own greater experience."

Mr. Brosseau continued that in a small town where everyone is known and where a boy's father and grandfather are often members of the same community, there is a background of trust and confidence that make the way far easier.

"The boy who starts work on a farm or in his home town of a few thousand inhabitants is given a better chance to show what he can do than the city boy who must compete from the start with specialists trained in every line that he tries to break into.

"The small town boy is surrounded by friends anxious to push him to the top if he shows the ambition and ability to take hold.

TIME IS VALUABLE.

"The case is different, however," he explained, "in the larger cities like Boston, New York and Chicago. In New York, where I have worked for a number of years, time is so valuable that we can employ only the trained worker. A man at the head of a corporation has neither the strength or time to teach a country boy his trade.

"Nearly all the big men today in New York," Mr. Brosseau explained, "are small town boys who made the most of their opportunities at home and learned their trade before attempting to enter the metropolitan market. Then, when their ability was recognized, as it always is, they were called to positions that offered greater responsibilities."

Mr. Brosseau spoke of the power of encouragement as an important factor in aiding a man toward success. "Any kind of business is a long up-hill road and many discouragements come at the start.

"It is hard sometimes to see through the maze of difficulties. A kind word or slight praise will help a man through many hard times."

Experience and special qualifications for work are the first questions asked by the large employer of men in large cities, according to Mr. Brosseau.

"It is not that city men are hard, selfish or unwilling to help the beginner. They just haven't got time."

Mentioning the great names that have become associated with an early apprenticeship on a farm, Mr. Brousseau spoke of Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States.

"Certainly there is no more notable example of success that grew from a consciousness of early opportunities," he said. "One of the reasons I believe for President Coolidge's success is his early training on the farm, where he learned the simple essentials of life and the importance of work as a life force."

"Vampire Complexion" Is Natural, She Says

Uses Ordinary Mercolized Wax

They say of a certain well-known dancer that she has a "vampire complexion," it is so bewitchingly beautiful. Yet to intimate friends she has confided she abhors make-ups and that her complexion is really natural. Her secret is—ordinary mercolized wax. She spreads a thin coat of the wax over her face at night and washes it off upon arising. This simple application actually absorbs the dead particles of scarf skin which daily appear, and a fair, soft, fresh, girlish skin is always in evidence. The complexion is kept perpetually young by preventing the accumulation of the ageing cuticle.

As mercolized wax is obtainable at any drug store (an ounce is sufficient), anyone may enjoy the benefits of this remarkable beauty secret.

CONVICTED MAN TO BUILD GUILOTINE

Paris, Oct. 12.—Isidore Hespel, familiary known as "the Jackal," official executioner of the French penal settlement at Cayenne, French Guiana, is shortly to be guillotined himself.

As he has a very poor opinion of the skill of the executioner who succeeded him, he has asked to be allowed to erect the guillotine himself for his own execution.

Hespel was appointed executioner after serving a long term of penal servitude. Recently he quarrelled with a convict and killed him in a fight. He was tried and condemned to death, and the court of cessation rejected his appeal.

SHOT FIRED IN ARREST OF SAILORS

There was considerable excitement when two sailors were chased through the Public Garden and the Common by three police officers and Patrolman Trask fired a shot from his revolver to stop his man.

Floyd D. Morgan, twenty-seven years old, attached to the U. S. S. Wabash, was booked on a charge of drunkenness. Willie Oscar Kapps, nineteen years, attached to the U. S. S. Utah, is accused of assault and battery.

UNABLE TO TELL IF HE IS MARRIED

Norfolk, Ct., Oct. 11.—In coroner's inquiry here, Daniel Scalzi, twenty-six, on the witness stand, was asked if he was married or single, and responded, "I do not know." When pressed for explanation, he elucidated that his wife's uncontested divorce case was on trial and he did not know whether or not the divorce had been granted at that time.

Volkmann of Paris, France, and Mary Gordon of Brookline, $5 each. The remainder of the estate he bequeaths to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Volkmann.

Society Folk Salesladies, Says Betty Alden

MRS. REGINALD BOARDMAN

Mrs. Boardman of Marlboro street and Manchester will be one of the society salesladies on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at Jay's.

By BETTY ALDEN.

A NOTABLE group of matrons are taking the role of saleslady for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, when "hospital days" are to be held at Jay's smart apparel shop of Temple place.

Mrs. Huntington S. Wolcott Milton is leading spirit of this project, which netted such a tidy sum for the Children's Hospital when it was held last year. It is hoped that this institution will benefit even more by next week's undertaking.

Mrs. H. S. Wolcott (Photo by George H. Davis, Jr.)

Twenty cents of every dollar on the gross sales made on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be turned over to the hospital. When one considers that the latter charges only 35 cents for the initial consultation, and only 25 cents for each additional visit, it is easy to see that there is a deficit which must be made up. Here is everyone's chance to help.

Among the helpers whom Mrs. Wolcott has enrolled for service "behind the counters" are Mesdames Albert Bigelow, Theodore Baker, J. Lewis Bremer, Reginald Boardman, Joseph Proctor, F. L. W. Richardson, Robert H. Stevenson, Jr., Randolph Tucker and Philip Weld, as well as Miss Katherine Abbott.

Mrs. Peggy Foster

I recall that last year vivacious Mrs. Reggy Foster (Frances Hoar) was one of the busiest workers at the three-day sale, while stately Mrs. Gordon Abbott and her daughter, Katherine, were equally interested in swelling the coffers of the Children's Hospital.

CONTRARY to their custom, Mr. and Mrs. Amory Ellot are to spend the Winter in Boston instead of on the North Shore at Manchester. The Eliots will be at the Hotel Somerset from November until the first of May.

MRS. WILLIAM PHILLIPS, wife of the Under Secretary of State, has returned to "Highover," North Beverly, from a visit to Washington. Later Mr. Phillips is coming on to the shore for a short stay just before the family goes to the capital for the Winter.

Mrs. George von L. Meyer

MRS. CHARLES S. TUCKERMAN (Ruth Appleton) recently gave a dinner at "Applefield," her Ipswich estate, which was attended by about forty members of the family. Mrs. Tuckerman's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall Tuckerman (Linda Scarritt) make their home with her.

RUNAWAY BOY IS CAUGHT IN LYNN

Ten-year-old Robert Kroft of No. 67 Morris street, East Boston, who ran away from home two weeks ago and made his way to New York on the Fall River boat only to be returned here, made a second unsuccessful attempt to run away.

He was picked up in Central Square, Lynn, by Patrolman Cornelius Donovan, after he had narrowly escaped being hit by an automobile. He was brought to the police station where he told of having walked from his home to Lynn.

HOW TO INCREASE AND KEEP YOUR BEAUTY

By Maria Jeritza,

Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

DO you remember the quotation describing the "promised land" as "flowing with milk and honey"?

Milk we know is a perfect food for man. And honey is an ideal sweet. Both foods are pure and both contain not one harmful element.

We who are engaged in the beauty quest may well profit by the hint contained in this description of an ideal homeland and for our health and beauty make full use of those valuable aids—milk and honey.

Let us consider today the various beauty uses of honey.

Extracted as it is, almost entirely from the nectar of flowers, honey is the essence of the purity of flowers kissed by sun and dew. Authorities agree that it is far more easily digested than ordinary sugar. So when you feel a craving for something sweet, you will make no mistake if you spread honey over wholewheat bread and butter.

Honey affords a greater variety of flavoring than is generally realized. For instance, there is the light and very delicious variety which the bees extract in early Summer from white clover and other delicate flowers. Later in the Summer they make pure yellow "goldenrod" honey, which has a distinctive, rich flavor. And later still comes buckwheat honey of golden brown, gathered from the buckwheat blossoms and other Fall bloom.

So, you see, Mother Nature has offered variety in this favorite confection of hers.

From ancient times honey has been highly esteemed as a food to increase vigorous beauty. Pythagoras, that wise philosopher, whose fame has not died in 2,500 years, lived to be ninety and subsisted almost entirely during his latter years on bread and butter and honey.

The "mead" of which we hear in Teutonic lore, was a drink with a honey base. Also hydromel, made from honey, was the favorite beverage of Teutonic couples during the first month of their marriage; hence the term "honeymoon."

Honey is said to be a gentle laxative, as well as a producer of heat and energy.

But its value as a food is only one beauty use for honey.

The action of honey on the skin is always soothing and agreeable.

Try this paste the first time your hands become rough and chapped this Fall.

White of one egg; glycerine, 1 teaspoonful; pure strained honey, 1 ounce; barley flour, enough to make a paste.

And here is cold cream so pure that it cannot hurt the most delicate skin:

Pure strained honey, 1 cup; pure beeswax, ¼ cup; cottolene, 1 cup.

Melt the ingredients, then take the mixture off the fire and stir until it is cold.

HERE'S A BABY 98 8-10THS PER CENT. PERFECT

DAUGHTER OF ARMY OFFICER

Lack of Vaccination Prevents Barbara Replogle From Scoring 100 Points

FOUND—The perfect baby. A girl.

She's Barbara Louise Replogle of No. 52 Dundee street. She is thirty-five months old. Her measurements are perfect.

Only lack of vaccination prevented her from scoring 100 per cent. at the Better Babies Conference in the Boston Health Show, Mechanics Building. She lost one and two-tenths points because Pa and Ma Replogle overlooked vaccination, scoring 98.8.

Physicians at the conference were both pleased and amazed at little Barbara's remarkable achievement. She has proved the highest scorer out of the 500 babies examined. Next comes Ruth Mulloney, four years and four months old. But Ruth and Barbara will not conflict. They are in different classes, babies being graded according to age.

Barbara is the daughter of Roy G. Replogle, an army officer.

Ruth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulloney of 52 Montvale street, Roslindale. She was leading Robert Louis Alshuler, previous leading candidate for physical perfection honors with a .98 score when Barbara came to bat today.

How old is your kiddie?

Three, four or five?

Then ask him these questions:

"Johnny—Mary, do you know your sex?"

"What's mamma's name?"

"What's daddy's?"

"What's your own?"

"Count three pennies.

"Pick out a horse, cow, pig or dog from your picture book?"

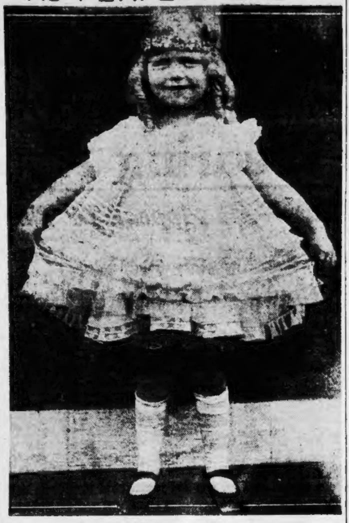
Sound ridiculous don't they, but they aren't.

100 A DAY TESTED.

These are the interrogations set by experts in mentality tests at the better babies conference.

Each day over a hundred children from three months to six years are tested in the mental booths at the Health Show.

AHEAD OF HER CLASS AS PERFECT BABY



RUTH MALONEY

Ruth, a little miss who lives in Roslindale, has scored 98.5 points in the "Boston's Perfect Baby" contest at the Health Show. While another girl has scored a fraction higher than Ruth, they are in different classes, being judged according to age. Ruth is four years four months old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Mulloney.

Kiddies cry to get into the mental test booths. But not one tear is shed after they sit in. Each baby as he enters the bright, sunny booth, filled with toys and games, strains on mamma's hand to go first.

OLDER ONES UNAFRAID.

The older children showed no hesitation in firing back answers to Dr. L. Carmichael. Several of the kiddies turned the tables on Dr. Carmichael and started asking questions on their own hook.

"Mamma, what's that?"

"What's the funny man doing in his nightgown?" asked one small boy who was voted by the specialist to show more than average powers of observance.

The children so far have rated high in all mental tests which they take in the spirit of a game.

If a child shows unusual timidity or fear he is given a low rating mentally. The baby who won't answer questions and is slow or imperfect in speech is also ruled out for the prize.

Another feature in the mental examinations is the low rating of the fat babies.

"There are too many fat babies in Boston," says Dr. Drake. "It isn't only adults who have to worry about overweight. The babies should have just as rigorous a diet as the grown-ups," he continued. "So many mothers think that if their baby is big and rosy he is healthy. It is just as serious to be too fat as to have the kiddies too thin."

"Girls rate higher in health tests than boys," Dr. Drake declared. More entrants of the fair sex have been listed in the requests for examination than boys, it was said.

"The girl babies respond more readily to all the tests on the average than the boys," he continued.

"They are beginning to show already that they can stand on their own two feet without any masculine assistance."

BOTTLE BABY SCORES.

The official scorers at the health show here reportd high-scoring babies as follows:

Edna Claire Dorren, No. 38 Whiting street, Roxbury, twenty-six months, daughter of James E. and Lena Snow Dorren, scored 97.6 per cent. She weighed 11½ pounds at birth and is one of the very few high score babies brought up on the bottle.

Virginia Mae Olson, No. 274, Boston avenue, Medford, fourteen months, daughter of Gustave and Grace Carlson Olson, scored 96.6

Leonard Walter Tucker, No. 79 Myrtle street, Boston, six months, son of Joseph and Minnie Tucker, both of Russian descent, scored 96.2.

Helen Norton, No. 33 Woodcliff street, Roxbury, fifteen months, scored 94.6.

Kathleen Roche, No. 797 Broadway, Chelsea, fifteen months, scored 94.5.

Patricia Truman Thompson, No. 52 Cotting street, Medford, twenty-four months, scored 94.2.

Elizabeth Marjorie Maseley, No. 10 Imrie road, Allston, sixteen months, scored 93.9.

Margaret Frances O'Brien, No. 4 Rochedale street, Roxbury, one month, scored 93.5.

Lalla Virginia Singleton, No. 276 Harvard avenue, South Medford, eighteen months, scored 93.4.

Helen Natalie Leibman, No. 27 Astor street, sixteen months, scored 93.

Muriel Ruth Coyle, No. 254 Sidney street, Cambridge, twenty-three months, scored 92.7.

Arlene Cecile Gaffey, No. 511 Hancock street, Wollaston, seventeen months, scored 92.7.

Mary Jean Early, No. 565 River street, Mattapan, twenty-six months, scored 92.9.

Nora Agnes Madden, No. 470 Mulford street, Charlestown, twenty-five months, scored 93.5.

CAMBRIDGE BOY HIGH.

Walter Edward Clark, Jr., No. 278 Green street, Cambridge, twelve months, scored 92.2.

William Herman, No. 26 Wayland street, Roxbury, sixteen months, scored 93.2.

Thomas A. Gannon, No. 633 East Eight street, South Boston, scored 92.9.

Harold Francis Elliott, No. 31 Florence street, East Somerville, seventeen months, scored 92.2.

Arthur Richard Lane, No. 72 Wordsworth street, East Boston, eighteen months, scored 92.7.

Frank Edward Connery, No. 151A School street, Revere, six months, scored 92.

Daniel Govenstein, No. 1185 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, nine months, scored 92.

SCHICK TEST GIVEN.

As the mothers leave the consultation room of the baby house, they are invited to the city health department booths, where "in five seconds" the physicians in attendance can give the baby the Schick test, the first step toward protecting the little one against diphtheria.

Requests by mail and telephone continue to pour into the health show headquarters from mothers who realized too late the character of the examination given to the babies which were fist entered at the show on the Boston American coupons.

AMERICAN HELPS.

A letter came from a mother in Roxbury who wrote: "I have lost two children and am anxious for the welfare of Mary, who is fifteen months old. I would like her examined, if possible." Such applications should be made to the city health department.

Miss Bernice W. Billings, R. N., chairman of the tuberculosis clinic at the health show, is enthusiastic over the response the public has made to the offer of free medical examinations and advice regarding tuberculosis. "Of the eighty-two persons examined yesterday," said Miss Billings, "twenty-five brought Boston American coupons as letters of introduction, and throughout the show, by the way, the American has been most courteous and extremely helpful.

"In yesterday's clinic forty-nine persons who were in perfect health, six cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, two cases of glandular tuberculosis and nineteen cases that we considered 'suspicious.' Besides the tuberculosis patients we found four persons who were suffering from bronchitis, and two with bad hearts," said Miss Billings.

WATCH GIVEN AWAY.

A gold wrist watch will be given away today at the show to stimulate interest in oral hygiene among children. The boy or girl whose teeth are found to be most perfect and who has the cleanest mouth and the best formed dental arches will receive the watch. The examination will take place this Friday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock and is open to boys and girls from four to fifteen years old. The oral hygiene section is popuarizing the slogan, "Good Health for Good Teeth, Good Teeth for Good Health."

JAMES F. RYAN AND WIFE DIE IN CRASH

Grafton, Oct. 12.—James F. Ryan, Worcester lawyer, his wife, Mrs. Alice Ryan and Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan of Worcester were killed when their motor car struck a tree on the Providence road near here. Cornelius Sullivan was slightly injured. They were returning home from Hillbury.

All were hurled out of the machine by the crash. Ryan's body was found fifteen feet away from the car. When the machine hit tree, it swerved and landed in a lumber pile.

In the wreckage state constabularymen found a package containing a suit of clothes for a child. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan had three children who are orphaned by the accident. Ryan was formerly chairman of the Democratic city committee and several members of his family are prominent in Worcester.

CENSORS ALLOW ARBUCKLE TO CONTINUE

The appearance of "Fatty" Arbuckle on the stage of the Bowdoin Square Theatre for the remainder of the week will not be disturbed by the city board of censors.

"Fatty" Arbuckle

Following an official visit of Mayor Curley, Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and Chief Justice Bolster of the Municipal Court, who comprise the censorship board, John M. Casey, secretary, gave out the following statement:

"While the presence in the city of the individual against whom protest had been made was in no sense pleasing or desirable, the statement made by him while upon the stage was simply a statement of fact relative to his recent trial.

"The power of action under the statute is only to suspend or revoke the licensee's license.

"The officials see no occasion for such action."

It was learned, however, that Arbuckle has definitely decided to abandon his lecture tour of the United States at the close of his performance Saturday evening, cancelling all other bookings previously made.

PRINTER KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Fall River, Oct. 12.—John H. Hurley, sixty-five years old, of the local typographical union, residing at No. 1034 Plymouth avenue, was killed when an automobile in which he was riding in company with Rosario A. Fiset, twenty-one years old, of No. 351 Whipple street, ran into a stone wall on the Fall River-Providence road, a short distance from the Lees river bridge.

BOY KILLED IN FALL TO RAILROAD TRACKS

Walter A. Carter, seven years old, son of Irving I. Carter of No. 110 Walnut street, Somerville, was instantly killed when he fell from the abutment of the Medford street railroad bridge in Gilman square, Somerville, to the railroad tracks twenty feet below. The boy was walking on the abutment of the bridge when he lost his balance and fell.

TRAFFIC SUGGESTION NO. 15

The American prints today another suggestion in the series aiming to solve Boston's serious traffic problem. This correspondent believes autoists promptly obey signs and signals and accordingly advises placement of large direction and warning signs to drivers and caution notices for jaywalkers.

"I suggest," says the correspondent, "that large, plain, readable signs be placed above the roadway with just sufficient clearance. For example, a sign could be placed at Tremont and Avery streets as a notice to autoists moving toward Bolyston street, advising them that there is no left turn at Boylston street, that two lines of traffic only are allowed, that it is a right turn at the junction and that no parking is permitted.

"Similar signs would also be of benefit on Tremont street at Lagrange street and on Boylston street at the Edison Building. The sign on Boylston street, near Charles street, should state Tremont street is being approached, that the district is congested and should not be entered unless necessary.

"The sign should have arrows suggesting detours, and should state that two lines only are allowed, that there is a left and right hand turn and straight ahead direction and that no parking is permitted. At each of the four corners of this crossing there should be several signs reading: Safety First. Wait for signal. Do Not Jaywalk.

"These signs, to supplement a tower with signal lights controlling the surrounding district, would increase the amount of traffic that could be taken care of in the business section."

COWBOY WOOER GETS A JOB IN SALEM

Salem, Oct. 12.—William H. "Big Bill" Kennison, long distance wooer from the "wide open spaces" out Montana way, started on a job today and prospects are brighter for wedding bells than at any time since the 62-year-old cowboy arrived from the West with $15 to marry Miss Lydia Deborah Eliza Anne Miller of Danvers.

Miss Lydia Miller

Wm. H. Kenerson

A building wrecker with a big heart gave "Big Bill" a job at $19 per, after Clerk Entwisle of Salem City refused the couple a license on the ground that the prospective bridegroom had lived in the city just one day.

For several years, Kennison and Miss Miller have courted by mail. Last Friday Kenison arrived from Montana. He met his postage-stamp affinity and was much pleased. Miss Miller, 35 years old, was disappointed at first because of the disparity in their ages. She was disappointed secondly by the voluntary review Mr. Kennison gave of his financial condition.

After paying his railroad fare, "Big Bill", you see, had landed in Salem with $15 to his name. But it was cash money. And, later, Miss Miller relented and they decided to go on with the ceremony. In District court they were given a waiver of the five day law. Then City Clerk Entwisle "gummed" the works.

Miss Miller is at home in Danvers. Her fiance is wrecking buildings. But the future is bright.

SOMERVILLE MAN HELD IN DOPE CASE

Charged with the sale of 480 grains of morphine, Bernard Clancy, forty years old, single, of No. 90 Webster avenue, Somerville, was arrested by Federal Narcotic Agents H. L. O'Malley, D. L. Yutronich, J. A. P. Flynn and William D. Allen, Jr., at Elm and Cambridge streets, Cambridge. He had considerable morphine in his possession. He also had on his person a large number of one dollar bills. Complaints have been made to the Federal agents by residents of Somerville and Boston and his apprehension greatly relieved the Federal officials.

LETTER THREATENS INJURY TO MAYOR

Woonsocket, R. I., Oct. 12.—Mayor Adelard L. Soucy of this city received a threatening letter through the mails. Although he refused to divulge its contents. Mayor Soucy said it was a message similar to others that have been received by various citizens during the past few months some of which were signed "K K. K."

At Woonsocket police headquarters all information regarding the matter was withheld. It was said, however, that the letter received by the mayor had been turned over to the postal authorities.

DESPONDENT YOUTH SWALLOWS POISON

Fitchburg, Oct. 12. — Edmond Primeau, twenty-two years old, living at No. 280 Wanoosnac road, attempted to end his life by drinking three ounces of creolin. He has been despondent over ill-health for some time. He came home from work today and went to the bathroom and drank the poison. His groans were heard by his parents who called Dr. Thomas Donovan who rushed him to the Burbank Hospital. He will recover.

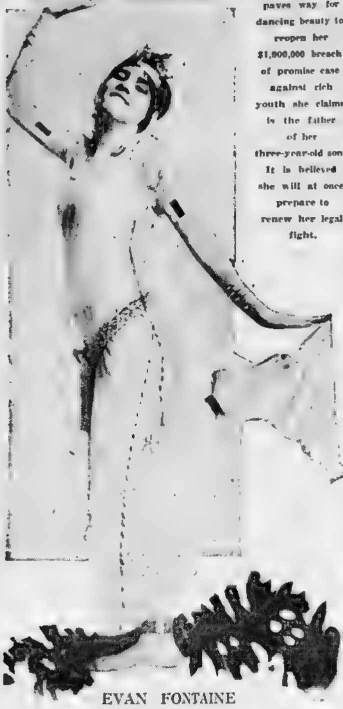
Five Dead, 3 Dying From Poison Liquor

FONTAINE GIRL NOW FREE TO SUE WHITNEY



Court decision paves way for dancing beauty to reopen her $1,000,000 breach of promise case against rich youth she claims is the father of her three-year-old son. It is believed she will at once prepare to renew her legal fight.

EVAN FONTAINE

New York, Oct. 12.—The appellate division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn has ruled that the decree annuling the marriage of Evan Burrows Fontaine, the dancer, and Sterling L. Adair, was valid.

Cornelius V. Whitney

Justice Tomkins, in Nyack last January, vacated the decree, on the ground that it had been obtained by fraud in 1920.

Lawyers pointed out that the action of the appellate division placed the dancer in a position to reinstitute her million dollar breach of promise suit against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, which had been dismissed. Whitney was married in Paris last May to Miss Marie Norton of New York.

Miss Fontaine is expected to plan an early re-opening of her suit against young Whitney.

When Miss Fontaine married Adair in 1918, he was a dashing young sailor. In July, 1920, when she was friendly with young Whitney, who, she says, is the father of her three-year-old boy, she obtained from Justice Tompkins an annulment of her marriage to Adair. She charged Adair had falsely represented himself as previously unmarried, and that she and Adair had never lived together. Adair is dead.

Sonny Whitney, through his lawyers, moved before Justice Tompkins to have the annulment decree to Adair set aside on the ground of numerous letters submitted, which purported to show that Adair and Miss Fontaine had lived as man and wife long after their marriage.

Last January Justice Tompkins decided in favor of the Whitney contention and five days later Justice Borst, in Saratoga, dismissed the $1,000,000 suit, adding that he did not believe there had ever been any promise of marriage.

The Grand Jury of Rockland County then indicted Miss Fontaine and her mother for perjury in the annulment suit. This indictment was later dismissed as not founded on proper evidence.

HONOR BRIGHTON '98 WAR HERO

In tribute to the first Brighton boy killed in the Spanish War, Edward M. Cunningham Square was named and dedicated today at Cambridge, Murdock and Sparhawk streets, Brighton.

Mary and Margaret Cunningham, nieces of the hero of the occasion, unveiled the memorial tablet. William J. Cunningham, his father, and two brothers were present.

A parade preceded the exercises. Spanish War veterans, American Legioners, Troop B, 110th Cavalry, Boy Scouts, St Columbwille's Church cadets, and Independent Sons of Italy were in line.

Mayor Curley and District Attorney O'Brien were speakers.

ANOTHER SUITCASE FOUND IN RIVER

Tyngsboro, Oct. 12.—Chief of Police Pelletier of Tyngsboro denied the report that he transferred to the district attorney of Middlesex County a suitcase supposed to contain the head of the woman whose dismembered body was found here last month. Chief Pelletier says a suitcase was found in Merrimac River about two weeks ago, but there was no evidence that it had anything to do with the mystery.

CARNIVAL TO AID CHILDREN'S HOME

A charity carnival will be held in Mechanics Building on November 19, for the benefit of the building fund of the Home for Italian Children on Centre street, Jamaica Plain. The committee in charge includes the Rev R. J. Habelin, Ernest Nartini, Felix Marcella and Miss Luisa De Ferrarri. Cardinal O'Connell is honorary president of the Home.

TO ARREST DISPENSER OF DRINK

Liquid "Color of Whiskey" Sold to Victims in Soft Drink Places

Pana, Ill., Oct. 12 (A.P.).—Five men are dead and three others are in a serious condition after having drunk a quantity of poisonous liquor described as "the color of whiskey" in two soft drink parlors here Tuesday night. The dead are:

Dwight Filers, fifty, of Tower Hill, Ill., grain and stock dealer; George Baldwin, forty, Pana insurance agent, Edward M. Gaughan, forty-one, contracting painter of Pana, Charles F. Gaughan, thirty-two, of Blue Island, Ill., and Edward Biehl, forty-five, a local building contractor.

Maurice [illegible], forty-five, a stock buyer and livery stable owner of Pana; a son of John Tokoly, at whose soft drink parlor the liquor is said to have been purchased, and a foreigner whose name has not been ascertained, are critically ill in a hospital, presumably from the effects of the liquor.

An inquest over the body of Edward Gaughan, the first to die, and a verdict of death from "fusel oil and wood alcohol poisoning from beverage purchased of John Tokoly at [illegible]" returned.

The other victims died at intervals of several hours and all are believed by authorities to have purchased the liquor from Tokoly.

Tokoly's arrest is expected.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Poison is found in eight out of every ten samples of liquor taken in raids on saloons and soft drink parlors, according to Dr. Herman Bundesen, city health commissioner.

The statement was issued as Mayor Dever revoked the one thousandth retail beverage license in the city's campaign against prohibition law violators.

JESSICA BROWN TO LIVE IN ENGLAND

Jessica Brown

Home to Jessica is no longer the modest parental establishment in Delaware avenue here.

After Wintering at Continental resorts, the two plan to go in the Spring to the earl's estate in southern England. The London house is not to be occupied this Winter.

The countess has refused farewell invitations to affairs planned by several of Buffalo's fashionable persons. The earl himself says he always did like a quiet life, and has backed her in her decisions. Shopping has been occupying most of Jessica's time in the last few days.

England, she says, is to be their home, of course, but a visit to America will be made late next year.

RICH SUITOR SHOT; QUIZ WIDOW

Mystery Veils the Attack on Fiance While on Visit to Ex-Actress

New York, Oct. 12.—The victim of a mysterious shooting, Milton A. Maas, wealthy vice-president of a chemical corporation and resident of Asbury Park, N. J., is in a Stamford, Ct., hospital today after an experience at the Sound Beach, Ct., home of Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, a widow and former actress.

Prosecutor White and a corps of assistants were at Sound Beach today to begin investigation of two stories of the affair told by Maas and Mrs. Leslie.

The shooting occurred at 7:30 o'clock last night, according to the story of Mrs. Leslie, who [illegible] an attractive woman of thirty and maintains a beautiful estate on Ledge road, Sound Beach. She was Maas' fiancee, she said.

SHOT BY ASSAILANTS.

"He reached Sound Beach by train at 7 p. m., she continued. "A half hour later I started for a walk on the beach with my two dogs, [illegible] ing Mr. Maas in the living room. As I reached the porch two men sprang from the shrubbery, throttled me and threw me down.

"I struggled and screamed, and Mr Maas came rushing out. As he reached the porch a third man leaped from the bushes and fired twice. Mr Maas collapsed and I almost fainted."

Neighbors heard the shots, carried him into the house and afterward had him sent to the Stamford Hospital. One bullet had penetrated his body, passing out at the back and lodging in the house wall. Another lodged in his shoulder.

After having been operated on at the hospital Maas told his version of the shooting.

"I had just arrived and was entering the hallway of Mrs. Leslie's home," he said, "when I heard her scream from one of the rooms. Suddenly two men entered the hallway from the living room, and one of them opened fire on me. I went down at the first shot. That is all I remember."

Mr. Maas is unmarried. Besides the home at Asbury Park he maintained an apartment at a Broadway hotel in this city. Henry V. Walk of Newark, N. J., president of Maas & Waldstein Co., went to Greenwich to consult with Prosecutor White about the shooting.

What is behind the drive on American Woolen Company stock?

What caused the drop from a high of 109 5-8 to a low of 69 1-2 quoted last week, a decline of 40 1-8 points?

Is there a movement on foot to eliminate William M. Wood, president and generally accepted father of the big woolen company? GALLAGHER AND SHEAN -:- (Sing the words to the tune of Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean)

Registered U. S. Patent Office -:- By Joe Swerling

OH, MR. GALLAGHER, OH, MR. GALLAGHER! LANDLORDS ARE BARRING CHILDREN NOWADAYS!
SUITES TO LET NO CHILDREN ALLOWED
YES, IT SEEMS TO BE THEIR GOAL, TO ENFORCE STRICT BIRTH CONTROL!
EVERY MONTH THEY GIVE THE POOR OLD RENT A RAISE!
COOKING PROHIBITED
OH, MR. SHEAN, OH, MR. SHEAN! IT'S A POLICY THAT'S SHOCKING, CRUEL AND MEAN, I CAN HARDLY FORSEE WHAT THE END IS BOUND TO BE—NO MORE CHILDREN, MR. GALLAGHER?
COOKING PROHIBITED
NO MORE LANDLORDS, MR. SHEAN!

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA
Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color With Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur
Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS
Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only
It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.
They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.
So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.
Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.
Ask for a tube of "Joint Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.
All druggists dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first class druggists everywhere.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

A Delightful Romance with an Unusual Heroine

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

A Charming Serial of Love and Adventure in the Picturesque Days of the Beginnings of the Astor and Vanderbilt Fortunes

THE STORY SO FAR:

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland, when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. They prepare to start for New York.

Whose Plays Have Won Her a High Place Among American Playwrights.

"Little Old New York," from the Broadway Success of That Name, by Rida Johnson Young, Has Been Created Into a Superlative Motion Picture by Cosmopolitan Productions—Direction of Sidney Olcott—Adapted by Luther Reed.

VANDERBILT shook his head and smiled.

"It's difficult to say," he said. "You know one is a kindly old man. But a man may be one thing in his home and quite another in his bank. Business [illegible] is business."

"The situation is as Vanderbilt says [illegible] Mr. Fulton," said Larry.

"Well," said Larry, "you need give yourselves no further concern. The moment that my inheritance is legally mine I shall be glad to advance you the ten thousand dollars that you need."

Fulton looked pleased. Vanderbilt exclaimed aloud in his delight, losing for the moment his customary poise.

"We must drink to this enterprise," said Larry. "Some friends of mine are here; this is an occasion."

He called and Halleck, Brevoort and Irving came in one by one. Fulton was known to them all by sight, but they had not met before, and Irving in particular was really impressed.

"Is it true, Mr. Fulton," he asked, "that you once had a conference with the Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte while he was in his heyday?"

Fulton smiled.

"Yes, it is quite true, Mr. Irving," he said.

"Trust Irving to ask a question like that," said Brevoort with a laugh. "He'll talk to an inventor about that, and I suppose he'd have asked the Emperor Napoleon about—"

"Some love affair, never a battle," said Halleck.

"You may laugh at Irving," said Delavan affectionately, "but I assure you we all have great expectations of him, Mr. Fulton."

"I should like you to tell me more of that incident some time, Mr. Fulton," said Irving. "For, you know, I hope some day, when I get through drinking and gambling, to write a bit."

"I shall be delighted, Mr. Irving," said Fulton. He turned then to Delavan. "I hope I may be permitted to congratulate you, sir, upon your inheritance. The task is the more welcome because of the fortitude with which you bore your disappointment a year ago."

He bowed [illegible] with Vanderbilt.

"So say we all, Larry," cried Brevoort, slapping him on the back. "No man will grudge [illegible] better than yourself."

And Irving, his arm about his friend, echoed Brevoort.

"As for these O'Days," he [illegible], "I don't know whether they're lost, starved or dead, and I don't care. To-night we shall be merry at their expense."

"Well said," said Halleck. "And here's the faithful Reilly coming up the wherewithal!"

SECRETS OF HEALTH

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD IN THE HEAD

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

Former President of the American Medical Association.

"OH, it doesn't amount to anything—just a cold in the head!" I've heard many a person say.

You probably have said it yourself and proved it, like thousands of others, by getting over it without the slightest treatment.

But there are many thousands of others who have to paid to you [illegible] luck.

And here's why.

Dr. Reed

Of course you don't "catch cold" at all, but you do catch some germs or some germs catch you—germs that [illegible] and thrive [illegible] the then prevailing temperature of the atmosphere.

They begin business [illegible] spot [illegible] of your nose, a sort of hot spot from which they spread in all directions like the flame that starts from a match dropped in dead grass.

In this way it may spread not only over all the lining membrane of your nose but down your throat and into your lungs.

Or it may branch off into any one of several side tracks.

Thus there is one side track called the eustachian tube that leads from your nose to your middle ear, and still others that extend into the cells or cavities called the mastoid cells in the bone called the temporal bone in which the middle ear is situated. The extension of infection up these side tracks is not only painful but dangerous, often causing deafness and sometimes death, life being saved only by prompt, very prompt and skillful surgical interference.

See that you treat your cold in time.

RECORD CROWD.

More than half the [illegible] floor was filled at this hour and each succeeding subway train disgorged its quota of customers. One gets a good view of the arrivals from the press coop because the subway is like a lot of other things in this town upside down. It is elevated at this point.

Boston is the opposite of the so called metropolis. In Beanville one goes down cellar to board an elevated train. They do things better in the wide, wide West.

There is not a reserved or box seat to be purchased anywhere except from a few scattered scalpers. It was evident three hours before game time that the club's word [illegible] proposed to see once [illegible] 65,000 [illegible] tickets must be [illegible] today.

The [illegible] today was what the conservative [illegible] forecaster calls "seasonable," neither too warm nor too cold. [illegible] goes on with the overcoat [illegible] on an accent [illegible] in the day, however. The sun [illegible] fitfully and [illegible] haze. A gentle breeze comes out of the northeast.

The ocean [illegible] by the late Mr. Columbus is located in that direction. And that's where [illegible] comes from. Gotta have at least one rain [illegible] World Series complete.

If the wind blows hard [illegible] hinder [illegible] making home runs [illegible] into the face of it to send the ball into the [illegible] Wind and rain and other acts of Providence, however, do not hinder the Babe when he is in the proper humor.

PENNOCK KNOCKED FLAT BY ONE OF BENTLEY'S FAST SHOOTS

YANKS ARE SURE THEY WILL COME THROUGH

By WAITE HOYT
Of the Yankees

Copyright by Universal Service

New York, Oct. 12—The Yanks got the worst of it in the breaks, but in spite of that the team rose up like one man and smote the Giants the telling blow that spelled victory.

If the Giants begin to pass Ruth that means the rest of the Yanks will rise up and do their darndest to send the Babe around to the plate. It makes them mad to have Babe passed, and when Ruth is on, passed or by a slap of the baseball to where they "ain't," then the YANKEES ARE DANGEROUS.

BABE'S FIRST WAS LUSTIEST SLAM EVER AT POLO GROUNDS

[illegible] McQuillan. Hughey slipped Babe a fast one that made our big boy look foolish. Then Hugh tried to repeat but he missed it just enough to have the Babe slam the ball clear over the right field stand. It was a mighty wallop, probably the lustiest soak that ever was hit in the Polo Grounds.

His second home run was not as lusty. It was more like a second from the brush of an old master, but it was more important even than the first, for it showed that Ruth can hit Bentley, which was one of the big questions.

But to get back to the game. That second hit showed Babe was up to the top of his form. Why, he even hit that second homer with one arm. He'll be the works in this series from now on.

We know it must be. It was a Yank's day. Ten hits, three of them home runs, coupled with Herb Pennock's masterly pitching, sent the Clan McGraw flat on their backs. The Yankees now pack a wallop like Firpo, but they have with it the skill of a Tommy Gibbons, so we feel rather pretty this balmy Autumn evening.

RUTH, PENNOCK AND DUGAN SHOWED ENOUGH TO WIN

Ruth, Pennock and Dugan displayed enough ability to win any game without any outside help. Not that they didn't get it, for the Yanks machine played a wonderful game [illegible] up against them.

Babe Ruth came out of the hypnotic trance that McGraw seemed to have wound about him in the last two Fall classics of baseball. His hitting, revealing his wonderful form, practically spells ruin for the Giants for the rest of the series, if they pitch to him.

JOE DUGAN IS WITHOUT A PEER IN BASEBALL.

A word of praise for Dugan. Joe, to me, has always seemed to possess more animation and do and die spirit than any of the spirited Yankees. He goes about it unobserved, but he is fighting for every point.

Two swinging bunts were thrust in his direction. Coming in with the grace and ease of Devlin or Zimmerman, he scooped the ball with his bare hand and nipped the runners by a fraction of a second. He is without a peer in baseball and stands alone in his position.

As expected, Pennock is the pitcher who will bother the Giants most. His work, so far as I could see, was well nigh perfect.

IF NEHF PITCHES GIANTS ARE PICKED TO WIN

THE HORRORSCOPE—By A. Seer.

This is a lucky day, except for baseball reporters, who have to work overtime.

It will also be unlucky for pitchers who have an off afternoon.

The crystal is all blurred up, even as H. Fullerton would say, but McGraw failed to use Nehf, so no wonder.

The bullish movement in big Bam will continue, if Giant pitchers continue to make bulls.

No good PROFIT predicts on holidays, but if Nehf goes in, the Giants will win, 3 to 1, or something like that.

GREB ROBBED OF DECISION IN CONTEST WITH LOUGHRAN

CHEERS FOR BABE'S HOME RUN BY BOSTON AMERICAN READERS AT THE SCORE BOARD

PART OF THE TREMENDOUS CROWD THAT PACKED WINTHROP SQUARE AND ENJOYED THE WORLD'S SERIES GAME IN FRONT OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN SCORE BOARD

OFFICIALS INFLUENCED BY ROOTING OF FANS

By JACK CONWAY

Harry Greb, middleweight champion, was robbed of the decision in his ten-round bout with Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia at the Faneuil A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building.

It was one of those weird sympa[illegible] verdicts which cause ring champions to refuse to defend their titles in Boston.

Greb won seven rounds, Loughran three. It is a mystery to us how the officials arrived at their remarkable finding.

The decision was rooted in for Loughran. With Greb leading by the proverbial mile at the opening of the eighth round, Loughran made a [illegible] spurt and won the honors in this session. He also had the advantage in the ninth stanza.

Naturally this gave the fans something to cheer about. Most of the fans jumped aboard the Loughran band wagon and cheered lustily for the underdog.

Greb came back in the tenth round and outpointed [illegible] by a [illegible] to the [illegible].

Following the decision to Loughran a few of the [illegible] crowd cheered the verdict, but most of the [illegible] condemned the decision. Even the majority of those who had been rooting for Loughran were [illegible] in admitting that Tommy had received a present from the officials.

Johnny Brassil was the referee. A. F. McDermott and Joe [illegible] were the judges. It is not known whether the decision was unanimous. The Boxing Commission does not announce how its officials voted.

GREB FOUGHT IN HIS USUAL WHIRLWIND STYLE

Greb fought his usual whirlwind battle. He punched from all angles and also was successful in [illegible] many of his opponent's [illegible].

The champion was guilty of holding [illegible] and he [illegible] with [illegible] stage of the bout [illegible] was warned by the referee, while Red Mason, the title holder's manager, was allowed by Boxing Commissioner Buckley [illegible].

And then Greb did not do so much [illegible] in the clinches, though he was guilty of [illegible] while at close quarters.

Greb's middleweight title was not at stake as the match was [illegible] weights. Boston American readers were given this information [illegible] after the contest was announced.

It was announced that Greb weighed 168 pounds and Loughran 166 pounds. This was not the true weights of the fighters. [illegible] Greb scaled 17? pounds, Loughran 17?.

GREB CANNOT MAKE THE MIDDLEWEIGHT LIMIT

It is evident that Greb cannot make the middleweight limit of [illegible] pounds without weakening himself to a degree where he does not show at his best. In his bout with Wilson Greb was not able to stand up under Johnny's heavy body punches as a result of the low weight.

The Faneuil Club's feature bout was jammed with action. Greb is one of those rare, freak fighters like Johnny Dundee and Pancho Villa who always gives the fans thrills.

Greb had the margin in the first four rounds. His advantage was not quite as large in the second session as it was in the other three. His brilliant work at long range was what kept him out front.

LOUGHRAN ACTED AS THOUGH HE WERE AFRAID

Loughran appeared timid. He acted as if he were awed by the fact he was opposed by the champion.

The Philadelphia light heavyweight did little [illegible] in the fifth round. He opened up more and scored with heavy [illegible] to the body.

Greb came back strong in the sixth frame [illegible] took the advantage [illegible] session.

Loughran's [illegible] rounds were the [illegible] chapters [illegible] lack of points by [illegible] clean hitting.

Came the Greb surge in the tenth [illegible] and the [illegible] decision.

The contest was witnessed by more than 6,000 fans.

JOE EAGAN WINS EASILY IN THE SEMI-FINALS

Joe Eagan, [illegible] middleweight, easily won over Johnny McLaughlin of Philadelphia in the semi-final of ten rounds.

Walter Allen won over Carl Armstrong in two rounds. Allen scored one knockdown in the second, while Armstrong went down twice without being hit. Armstrong was not in condition to fight. Martin also stopped this bout.

As for the [illegible] Allen, Flanegan and Eagan won as predicted. So did Greb. We make no apology for this last statement.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

A nation can be [illegible] by its savers.

That nation is lost whose people cease to save money.

Happily the United States [illegible] ed by this test [illegible] the upgrade. In the last ten years the total deposits [illegible] ings banks and other savings accounts has increased [illegible] 000 and now stands [illegible] ordinary sum of $[illegible]

There are more [illegible] than there are [illegible] America. There [illegible] three persons in [illegible]

No other country can [illegible] these figures.

Even so [illegible] years will [illegible] impressive [illegible]

Why?

If for no other [illegible] our savings [illegible] going about their [illegible] intelligently [illegible] enterprisingly [illegible]

In the old [illegible] savings banks were rather sleepy institutions. They [illegible] very [illegible] and [illegible] posit [illegible] every six months and counting out withdrawals.

But they waited for business to come to them. They did little or nothing to create new business. They did not believe in the modern principle, that the way to get business is to go out after it. They were solid, they were conservative [illegible] dependable.

But they didn't hustle.

All this is being changed. The heads of many of our savings banks are today as enterprising, as aggressive, as dynamic as the heads of industrial or mercantile organizations. They are going out after business. They are creating new business. They are tapping virgin sources of deposits. They are carrying on valuable education work. They are selling thrift to the people. They are inculcating into millions of minds the importance of accumulating an ample nest-egg.

The more enterprising savings banks now start with the school child. Some even start with the new arrivals in the world by notifying parents that an initial deposit of $1 will be made for the child if its parents will open a savings account for it.

School savings, indeed, are becoming quite an important item. One banker told me the other day that his institution, including its branches, has almost $2,000,000 in deposits from school children. The total for the country must now run into many, many millions.

The Brooklyn savings banks [illegible] one recent week, thanks to painstaking efforts, opened 3[illegible] new accounts for workers in [illegible]

This new plan of going after wage-earners in industrial and other establishments is also making gratifying headway. Before very long arrangements doubtless will be made in every sizable business concern to have a modest sum either deducted from the worker's weekly pay or handed over on payday by the worker to go into a savings bank account.

* * *

The progressive savings bank executives of New York State who are now holding their big annual convention at the Westchester-Biltmore, succeeded in having a law passed permitting savings banks to open branches and another law enabling them to rent safety deposit boxes.

* * *

Why should workers and others who live in large cities not have branches of their favorite savings bank brought into their midst? Why should it be necessary to walk or ride miles in order to make a deposit? Woolworth and other pioneers learned the value of planting stores at convenient points in different [illegible] knowing [illegible] people to buy [illegible] for them [illegible]

To get people [illegible] ly important to make it easy for them to reach a savings bank.

Frankly, I had no particularly high regard for the old-time type of savings bank executive. I always looked upon him as a sleepy sort of fellow who simply sat down and waited for customers to come to him.

But I take off my hat to the Progressive Savings Bank executive of today. He is rendering a patriotic, fundamentally important service. No country can progress without capital. All money capital consists of saved money.

Think of the part our savings banks play in providing homes. In New York State alone the savings banks have provided $[illegible] for mortgages. This equals [illegible] per cent. of their total deposits, whereas two years ago only 52 per cent of deposits were invested in mortgages.

* * *

We are still a young country. Our national developments will call for billions of new capital each year for many years to come. Other less favored lands will also look to us for capital, just as we resorted to other countries for capital before we ourselves became so rich.

Officials: Referee—Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, Tufts; umpire, Fred Burleigh, Exeter; head linesman, Edward F. Sherlock, Brown; field judge, Thomas McCabe, Holy Cross.

Braves Field will have its first big football game of the season when the gates are opened this afternoon to a crowd of fully 20,000 for the only college gridiron game in this vicinity.

Boston College and Fordham hold the floor for the first major attraction of the year, a day ahead of the Saturday engagements.

Chuck Darling

Fordham is inspired, if not with hope of victory, with desire to put up as good a battle as they did in 1921, when the Eagle was held to a scoreless tie.

This year, as then, the Eagle tackles will have their hands filled to take care of Captain Lou Healy and his mate, Dunne, a speedy combination of ends. The old forward passing combination was Myers to Healy, and according to all reports this mode of attack is still going as strong as the Fitzpatrick-Urban mare.

With Kozlowsky out of the Eagle lineup against his will, Dunbar will bear the brunt of the Fordham attack. Donahue, the other tackle, is also new to his position. These boys will receive their first real test of the season in today's clash.

Joe McKenney

McManus will take Kozlowsky's place in running down punts as he and O'Connell are the speediest of the Eagle line.

Fordham is also fast, a necessity for a light team, but the New York linemen should have more difficulty in getting down under the famous boots from "Chuck" Darling's toe.

Darling is a distinct favorite in every line and is the looked for star of the Eagle backfield. He will see plenty of action this afternoon, and the only hope is that he will have the opportunity to run back more than one punt for sixty yards as he did against Providence.

Ward, the human streak of the three veteran backfield men, is fit again and will start the game with all the strength that he has displayed in past exhibitions. Fordham has felt his power before, and knows what a "Ward back" means at least a four yard gain.

Frank Wilson, the other member of the ball-carrying trio, also saw action against Fordham last year, and was responsible for one of the four Eagle touchdowns.

Joe McKenney, filled with eagerness and new confidence will direct this set of veterans, and should show all the power and strategy that he displayed to such great advantage in the freshmen game against St. Anselm's.

Jack Cronin, the aggressive brother of Bill, who is on the sick list, will see action before the final whistle blows, as will Jack McNamara at quarter. Larkin, who is twenty pounds heavier than Doyle, will be called upon to give the veteran center a rest, and no doubt many of the other freshmen, who made good last Saturday, will be called upon to show their stuff against bigger material.

The Fordham substitutes who hope to see action against the Eagle are, Fitzgerald and Marcotte, ends, Falussy and Fallon, tackles, Obester and Ruddy, guards, Stevenson, center, McNulty, Byrne, Malone and Zachszewski, backs.

HARRY WILLS WINS ON KAYO IN SECOND

Homer went to the canvas eight times in the five minutes of fighting, twice without being hit.

FORD BUYING TIMBER, NOT MINES

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

Purchases of copper for the Ford auto plants are still made in the open market, advantage being taken of the present low prices for the red metal, which are around four cents a pound under the March high.

Henry Ford is buying more and more timber in the Michigan district, but so far failed to put his money into copper mining, despite repeated rumors which have stirred the Lake Superior district to a high pitch of excitement.

Some day the astute auto producer may pick up a mine or two. He might run across a bargain or two at this stage of the market.

Recent increases of the Ford timber holdings in the upper Michigan peninsula have made him the largest timberland owner and lumber operator in that section.

His arboreal dominions contain more than half a billion feet of standing timber, largely hardwood and hemlock. There is also [illegible] on the Ford lands, but in what quantity is largely a matter of conjecture. The timber, naturally, is worth several million dollars.

The Ford holdings comprise today [illegible] everything used to [illegible] produce [illegible] except copper.

Latest Ford [illegible] location called Pequaming, in Baraga County, [illegible] acres of [illegible] land, saw mill, 20-mile logging railroad, towing outfit and water equipment, lumber, logs, logging equipment, two ferry docks and nearly all interests of Charles Hebard & Sons in counties of Baraga, Ontonagon, Houghton and Marquette.

Pequaming mill and the mill at L'Anse, nearby, will give Ford Company annual output of upwards of 50,000,000 feet of lumber. This is in addition to the large output of timber at the plant at Iron Mountain in Dickinson County, where parts for Ford bodies will be made.

HOTEL AND RESORT CHATS

WEBER DUCK INN

Situated on the State road between Boston and Providence, the Weber Duck Inn opened its doors to the public early this season and has enjoyed a large patronage. The inn is located on Weber Brothers' Duck Farm, the largest of its kind in New England. Thousands of choice, plump ducks are raised, and from these the inn is supplied daily with the ducks—fresh killed. With an excellent cuisine, under the supervision of a famous well known chef, their "Roast Duck Dinners" have already become quite popular.

The building is a unique reproduction of an inn typical of an early English period. The quaint stone tower, the dormer windows, and a field-stone fireplace give it a general rustic appearance. The luxurious furnishings are old English throughout. A fine English refectory table, hundreds of years old, with accompanying benches, attracts much attention.

An excellent orchestra with ample dancing space makes it an ideal place to spend an evening.

The town of Wrentham is this week celebrating its 250th anniversary and the management of the inn have planned a special program for the occasion.

THE BELLEVIEW OPENS JAN. 5

Announcement is made that the Belleview Hotel at Belleair Heights, Fla., will open Saturday, January 5, 1924. The Belleview is one of the Bowman Group and is noted for its excellent golfing, tennis, yachting, riding and swimming facilities.

BANCROFT TO BE IMPROVED.

Ground has recently been purchased for an addition to the Hotel Bancroft in Worcester which will bring the capacity of this house up to 500 rooms, and plans for other extensive improvements are being made that will include the enlargement of the cafeteria and the installation of a new laundry.

Mr. J. Linfield Damon of the United Hotels Co. and president of the Bancroft Hotel Co., with Brigadier General J. Leslie Kincaide V. P., of the United Hotels Co., was at the Bancroft last week going over the plans for the proposed improvements.

B. B. SELPH AT THE MELLEN

Mr. B. E. Selph of Gloversville, N. Y. will succeed Stanley Stanford Jr., in the management of the Hotel Mellen at Fall River, Mass. Mr. Selph was formerly associated with the Oneonta Hotel in New York City and the Atlantic Beach Hotel in Florida. The dining rooms and grill of the Mellen have been undergoing extensive renovations during the Summer but will be reopened about November 1.

POPULAR VERMONT HOTEL

Guests of the Hotel Bennington in Bennington, Vermont are taking full advantage these days of their privileges at the Mount Anthony Country Club, the finest in the State. This very excellent hotel is enjoying increasing popularity with the automobile tourists who are especially appreciative of the expert advice of Mr. George R. Rush, manager, regarding road conditions, mileage, etc. The Bennington was opened in April of last year, is run on both American and European plans and is rapidly becoming well known for its splendid cuisine.

LATE SEASON AT BRETTON WOODS.

An unusual number of guests have been housed at the Mt. Washington Hotel during the past few weeks, and seem loath to leave. As soon as the Fall motoring season has closed Manager C. Eugene Hames will take up his Winter quarters in Florida.

NEW HOTEL FOR NIAGARA FALLS

Ground was broken last week for the latest link in the United Hotels chain, the Hotel Niagara to be erected in Niagara Falls, home city of Frank A. Dudley, President of this corporation. W. W. Kincaid will be president of the hotel company.

DANIELS PURCHASES HOTEL PLEASANT.

The Hotel Pleasant, a 60-room house in the business district of Worcester, has recently been purchased by that well-known New England hotel man, Mr. George F. Daniels. Mr. Daniels was for many years proprietor of the Stevens House, Vergennes, Vt. and for the past two years conducted the Grafton Inn at Grafton, Mass.

The Hotel Pleasant is favorably known for the excellent food which is served at exceptionally reasonable prices.

WHEAT FARMERS TOLD TO GET TOGETHER

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12.—Co-operative marketing was strongly urged as the best solution of the Northwest wheat situation by the special commission sent into the wheat belt by President Coolidge at a meeting with seventy local business men, bankers, farmers and others interested in the Minnesota Club here.

HOW ENGLAND SEES US AND PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

This picture is printed in a little paper called The Bystander, published in London, and under it the line "Cool" idge in splendid "Ice" olation.

That is a brilliant British play on words, the "Cool" in Coolidge, and the "Ice"-olation of the United States.

The idea is that Coolidge is very cool to Europe, and the isolation of the United States is very icy toward Europe.

Furthermore, the British editor printing this picture wishes to impress upon us that it is very foolish for cool Mr. Coolidge to sit on a cake of ice, instead of enjoying the pleasant warmth of the League of Nations.

Please paint inside of your own mind ANOTHER picture. It may convince you that cool "Ice"-olation, bad as it may be, could be considerably worse.

The picture that you will be kind enough to conjure up before your mind's eye would show the United States as a flaming fire of war, with Coolidge sitting on top of that. It isn't VERY comfortable to sit on a cake of ice. But even that is much more comfortable than sitting on a red-hot stove.

If we took the advice of our good English, French, Bulgarian, Serbian, Czecho-Slovakian and other European friends, Mr. Coolidge would shift from the cake of ice to the red-hot stove, and so would all the rest of us.

Compared with Europe's condition, we find our cake of ice and our "ice"-olation quite bearable.

The world is going through a period of hot times, and there are worse things, when weather is very hot, than a cake of ice.

This picture, apart from the punning, is useful to us, showing how Europe feels toward us.

The plain fact is that they think we HAVE NO RIGHT TO MIND OUR OWN BUSINESS.

They think THEIR business should be OUR business, their troubles OUR troubles and their debts OUR debts.

Also they think that their fights and wars, after THEY start them, should be OURS, and that when their young men have had all THEY want of war, OUR young men should cheerfully go aboard ship and go over there to carry on, because the others are tired.

We DON'T think so, and let us HOPE we shall stick to our cake of ice and our "ice"-olation for some time to come.

City Charter Should Have GENUINE Recall

The hearings before the special committee on the City Charter of Boston develop some interesting features.

The Finance Commission is backing the regular politician's idea of an ideal city government, with a City Council elected by districts. On the other hand, the charter guards, who, we presume, also represent the Good Government Association, are urging proportional representation and the return of the Recall.

We ought to have the Recall if we are going to have a four-year term for Mayor. The charter guards and the Good Government Association ought to be ashamed of themselves for attempting in the first place to perpetrate such a dishonesty as the original provision for the Recall in the City Charter.

That provision was intended for nothing but a snare and a delusion. It was an attempt to sugar-coat the charter for the people of Boston who hesitated about giving the Mayor so much power and then giving him a four-year term in which to exercise that power.

At the time the charter was drawn, those who were drafting it had in mind Mr. J. J. Storrow's election as Mayor, and they wanted to make him dictator of the city. At the same time they wanted to get the people to adopt the charter. So they put this fraudulent provision into the charter, got it adopted and then had the chagrin of seeing John F. Fitzgerald walk into the Mayor's office, protected for four years by this very fraud they, themselves, had perpetrated.

When Mr. Peters became Mayor, these gentlemen dropped the Recall out the window. Now they want to put it back in the charter. We entirely agree with them that it should go back. We also agree that it should be back as a GENUINE workable Recall. We assume that the anxiety of the charter guards to put the Recall back is not due to the fact that Mr. Curley is Mayor.

The charter guards are urging proportional representation. In this we believe that they are entirely right. This is the best device we know for making representation really representative. It is the best device we know for preventing the total disenfranchisement of the minority.

We hope the people of the city will consider proportional representation. It is being adopted by the forward-looking countries all over the world as an aid to democracy.

Screwdrivers, Long and Short

Editor Boston American:

Reading the article by Garrett P. Serviss in the American of October 6, the thought comes to me that, while it is a fact that a long screwdriver is more powerful than short one, used in the hand, would the same be true if used in a lathe where the screwdriver was in perfect alignment with the screw?

If the screwdriver was made in such a way that it set at right angles to the screw as does a wrench, then it would be plain why a long one would be more powerful

Do we not in using a screwdriver, unconsciously swing it towards the right and thereby securing a certain amount of leverage in addition to the turn of the wrist?

Editor Boston American:

It's amusing to read what women have to say about being independent of styles. Not long ago they informed the world they would never return to long skirts. Look at 'em now. Now they say they'll never forsake bobbed hair. Wait a few months. Exit the bobs and enter false curls, etc.

Husband Hurt, in Distress

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has been sick for over a month from rheumatism in his legs. In trying to walk he fell and broke his arm, so now he will be laid up for weeks We are behind in our bills, and I can't go to work for I expect a baby soon. I am keeping my boy out of school because he has no clothes or shoes. Please help us, as I am in awful need and if God gives us luck I will try my best to help others. I would like some clothes, size 38 or 40, and shoes, size 6½. My boy of twelve years wears size 4½ shoes. My husband wears size 40 clothes. I would also be thankful for any bed clothes as Winter is coming on. Dear readers, please help

MRS M. W.

Old Lady is Cold

Editor Helping Hand

I would like to know if any kind and good reader could help me to ward off the cold of the winter. Mine is a very cold house in Winter. I am a widow of sixty-five years, left without means of support. I can't work on account of rheumatism If anybody has an old pair of blankets or quilt, or coal or wood I would be more than thankful for anything. I hope I am not bothering too much, but I need help very badly.

M. C

Offers Coat, Sweaters

Editor Helping Hand

I would be more than pleased to get the little white dog that Mrs. S. W. S. offers and I would call for it. I am sure it would have a good home as my family is small and very fond of animals. I also wish to state I have a few things to give to some one who could use them—a coat for a girl of fifteen, two sweaters, and a dress or two for a girl of thirteen, and a few other things that can be picked up.

D. A. P.

We are very sorry but the dog has been given to a crippled child. Many many thanks for your contributions You have been sent the address of Mrs. A. E. McL., who will greatly appreciate them.

Widow Is in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a widow with three children My oldest boy, sixteen, works The next is fourteen years old He met with an accident a year ago and has not been well since I have a little girl, eleven I have been sick and just came out of the hospital. Now, they need clothes and shoes very badly and underclothes. I wear size 38 I have worked very hard for four years to bring them up and I had a very hard winter last year. I hope I am not asking for too much and I thank you very kindly.

MRS. E. S. R.

Offers Woman Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of Mrs F T, as I have some clothes I know she can make use of for herself, but I have nothing in the line of children's clothing.

K. D.

Thank you You have been sent the address of Mrs. F. T., and your contribution will help a lot.

Woman Wants Oilstove

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of Mrs. C. A. C., as I would like to ask her for the fairy tale books she offers. I have a nice pair of oxfords, size 5 or 5½, that she may have if her size. I need an oil heater very bad to take the chill off the bedrooms for the night. I have six children and a husband, who is sickly from the war. We have very little money and the bills are piling up. My children have quite a few clothes, but they need shoes. I need shoes for myself and bedding Thank you for your lovely work.

MRS. D. T. S

Girl of 17 Appeals

Editor Helping Hand.

I am a girl of seventeen and have not been working for three months. I have read your Helping Hand column and have seen an offer of clothing for girls between 17 and 19 years old. I would be very grateful if you would send them, if they have not been called for.

F. H.

Deserted, Seeks Help

Editor Helping Hand:

I have read so many of your kind letters I thought I would appeal to you. My husband has deserted me and my three children—three boys, nine, seven and three and a half. I would greatly appreciate anything for them, ii. Winter underwear or shoes. Or, if anybody has a stove that is not in use, I would be glad to get it, as the one I have is no good, the grate and lining and one cover and the stove pipe being gone. I would be thankful for anything you could send.

M. B.

Young Mother in Need

Editor Helping Hand.

I am a young mother with two little girls and I expect a little stranger in about two weeks. As my husband earns small pay, we have hard work to get along. I am unable to buy any clothes for the expected stranger and would gladly pay postage on any little clothes that might be sent to me.

MRS. W. A. E.

Wants Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand·

Is there any kind-hearted reader that has any baby clothes they could give to me? I expect a visit from the stork soon. My husband earns just about enough to live on, besides sending a little to his mother and to my mother who is blind. Also, has some one any clothes that would fit my mother? She wears size 40 and shoes, size 6. I am very destitute for clothes myself, but I had rather see my mother and baby taken care of. I hope some day I will be able to help someone, too. God bless the Helping Hand!

MRS. A. D. C.

Help for Mrs. M. G.

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will send the address of Mrs. M. G., I believe I could help her. I have a large box of baby clothes with plenty of everything for the expected baby. I also have a man's good union suit, size 40, and a carpet sweeper, which I will deliver to anyone needing same.

MRS. T. J. D.

Thank you. You have been sent the addresses of Mrs. M. G. and of Mrs. J. E. S., who will be grateful for the other things.

IF COLUMBUS WERE WITH US TODAY

By Herbert Kaufman

IF Columbus, instead of his effigy, were standing like a Simon Stylites on the column outside Central Park today, there wouldn't be a corporal's guard to greet him.

Discoveries of worlds are of less present interest to America than winners of World's Series.

Sad to say, the navigator whose memory we celebrate wouldn't note the slight. His own contemporaries paid him the same scant honor.

He gave Spain half the earth and Spain gave him chains and a prison cell in return.

Civilization regularly breaks the hearts of those before whose monuments it breaks into cheers.

If you want to hear a crowd applause, become a prize-fight champion, a home-run king or an eminent screen clown.

The great mustn't kick because they get little beyond nods and knouts while living; recall the money we spend on statues after they die!

But let's picture probable impressions in case our friend actually came back to look us over.

While careening through the Narrows, he might have watched the Daughter of the Stars on her christening trip.

What a contrast between the puny Pinta and the Shenandoah which can fly to either pole on one charge of fuel, and make fifty entire circuits of the earth quicker than that fragile caravel crossed the Atlantic!

Stranger Things Than Round Earth

Gazing toward London with a sufficiently powerful glass, he'd observe motored peewits scooting above the Thames at the rate of ninety miles an hour, as an eighteen-foot Sperry plane swooped over Grant's tomb and made safe landing on Riverside Drive.

We've been thinking hard, Christopher, since you left..

But not quite hard enough to protect society from daylight raids on the payroll of a big Manhattan store. Thugs nowadays rob and slay with even more impunity than the ladrones of old Cadiz.

A Washington lawyer, who frankly admits investing $27 in marks of $5,240,000 face value, is suing the American Express Company for the sum nominated on the bonds. There's a more hopeful man than you ever were.

At first thought, you'd swear there were no possible novelties in starvation, and change your mind upon learning how multi-millionaires alone are rich enough to buy a loaf of bread in Berlin or send telegrams at 49,000,000 marks a word. One fears, though, that the bare mention of telegraphy, much less wireless, would draw from you an exorcising gesture.

We've picked up a lot of knowledge since the most amazing fact of the century was proof the earth is round.

The Secret Mines of Golconda

Announcement of the chernovitz, a Russian gold note equivalent to five dollars, and quoted higher than English pound sterling, wouldn't hold your attention for an instant.

None the less news to thrill more people than total populations of Europe when you stood eggs and the Middle Ages on end.

Multitudes of these folk may thank you for the precious gift of maize, later to snatch them from the jaws of post-war famine. You sensed merely a substitute for wheat and barley in the tribute ears laid at Isabella's feet.

Science has since extracted the ransoms of empires from those protean starches. The Corn Product Company's bright young men have even located sugar therein.

You searched vainly for Cibola and Golconda—never guessing to rummage refuse heaps.

Slender Hinges of Destiny

Considering you were the pioneer anti-isolationist, nothing's likelier to amuse you than claims that the United States has cut itself off from Europe. Con the shipping in New York harbor, investigate export statistics and bank loans, cast the totals of expenditures by relief societies, the Red Cross, and the congressional appropriations for distant destitution, and conclude the survey with purchases of our traveling citizens, who, it is figured, left $350,000,000 on overseas counters during the past year.

Arithmetic is wasted on obsessions. Remember how they jeered your geographical verities.

You swung half a planet into Spain's lap with derricks bought by a handful of jewels.

New York State squandered $80,597 on sixteen cranes that have yet to lift an arm.

Recreant public servants aren't a monopoly of yesterday. Castile and Aragon spent their illicit greed, but not nearly so lavishly as subsequent governments.

Strange emotion should stir you at publication of a million-dollar Rockefeller gift to the Bronx Park Zoo—price of two hundred cockle-fleets.

Wage-earners here by thousands can show receipts for automobiles costing more than the expedition of 1492. Infinite destinies often swing on the slenderest hinges, for Isabella's pitiable resources were your final hope!

Theories That Paralyze Comprehension

A cowardly, capitulating phrase! Hope is invincible.

As witness triumphant experiments in Paris hospitals on paralytic patients. Moorish physicians, whose fame still exchoes through the ghostly halls of Granada, confessed utter failure before paralysis, and dared predict the futility of attempting its cure.

Iodine was in their hands, but X-rays weren't in their heads.

By screening spinal cords, surgeons are at last able to photograph and exactly locate clots and ulcers, then operate with impunity.

Quite simple when explained. Perhaps Professor Michelson and Dr. Dale, mystically busy yonder in Chicago with lines of terra-cotta pipe, shall, after conclusion of their tests, clarify the Einstein theory—more difficult to comprehend than scepticism once found your astounding notion that we aren't sitting on a terrestial flapjack.

Science Gauges the "Kick" in a Feminine Kiss

The Cruel Verdict of a Blood Pressure Expert, Who Demonstrates That, When Lips Meet, Woman Remains Relatively Calm, While Man Gets All the Thrill

Henry Marlowe and Miss Amy Harris, Both of New York City, Undergoing a Kiss Test, to Determine Their Relative Blood Pressures During the Caress. Hers Remained at 105, While His Jumped to 155.

The "Kiss Meter" (Below), Once Used to Measure the Minimum Impulse Required to Produce a Sensation in Woman, but Now Supplanted by Blood Pressure Apparatus.

A Woman Exhibitor at London's Kennel Club Show Tenderly Kissing Her Prize-Winning Bulldog.

ALWAYS eager to rush in and ruin romantic notions, science has just perpetrated a new one, which is going to annoy girls the world over. In effect, this latest discovery of an Illinois specialist says that a kiss means much to a man, but to a woman—NOTHING!

When Cleopatra's lips were pressed against those of Antony, according to Shakespeare and other unscientific writers, the charmer of the Nile was in quite an emotional state.

When Helen of Troy and Paris signified their love in the same way, the lady (says Homer) had palpitations and delicious little shivers, and her heart throbbed like a bass drum.

When Thais, the Alexandrian beauty, fell for Athaniel, the pious hermit—well, just read the story some day and judge how love played havoc with the nerves of that famous belle.

But all these legends must go by the board now, declares Dr. Emmanuel Schmack, of Strasburg University, who, with the aid of his trusty blood-pressure apparatus, has blown the theory of feminine excitability into smithereens.

"Woman, when she kisses"—thus Dr. Schmack—"remains as cold a proposition as the North Pole. Her blood pressure, as I have proved by indisputable tests, never advances perceptibly, even under stress of the most ardent and lingering caress. Never does it rise higher than 115, and even that is giving her the benefit of the doubt. Ordinarily, it flutters around 100.

"There's not a shadow of untruth about it—women just can't take kissing seriously. You doubt it? Then consider how indiscriminate girls and their mothers, and even their dear old grandmothers, too, are with their demonstrations of 'affection.'

"They lavish kisses on puny poodles and great mastiffs, and cool, unresponsive cats, and calm, uninterested horses. Women kiss their sisters and aunts—and even their mother-in-laws! You might think, from surface indications, that they had no other purpose in life except to kiss—and kiss, almost anyone, anywhere, at any time.

"But it doesn't mean anything. It's no more to them then washing a pile of dishes or making a new hat, and not half so exciting as having a 'good cry' over some sentimental book or play. And, remember, these are not mere theories on my part.

"For I have gauged to a shade the so-called 'kick' in the feminine kiss. It is less powerful than the mildest near-beer ever brewed."

The cruelest part of Dr. Schmack's indictment is that it "goes" for the "gentler sex" only. Men, he asserts, are quite differently constituted, they ARE perceptibly affected by the process; and it IS very bad for them to kiss too often or too intensely, since it has a pernicious influence on their health.

And when you skeptically raise your eyebrows at that statement, he shows you charts and figures and diagrams, the result of actual observation of "cases" which he has tested. His figures indicate that man is a tremendously emotional person, and that Antony and Paris and Athaniel, in all probability, were comparative wrecks after they had kissed (or been kissed by) Cleopatra and Helen and Thais.

"Man"—thus Dr. Schmack—"is pathetically subject to the suggestion of a kiss. At the first faint contact of his lips with those of his wife or sweetheart, his pulse pounds violently. His blood-pressure, as you will find if you examine those indexed cards carefully, leaps to 130 if the kiss says nothing more thrilling than 'Good morning, dear.'

"If the caress is slightly more impetuous, my apparatus shows that the pressure surges up to 135. If he kisses someone to whom he is deeply devoted, it reaches 140. And I have even discovered men who registered 160 when their affection was nobly raised to its highest pitch. This is an astonishing figure, as any physician who understands the significance of blood-pressure will willingly testify."

In spite of Dr. Schmack's vehement statements, the interviewer remained unconvinced. So the specialist insisted upon demonstrating his belief in woman's kiss-inferiority as a final proof. For this purpose he prevailed upon Dr. Henry Steible, of the Chicago Department of Health, to register the blood-pressure of a young couple who kindly consented to take part in a test case in Dr. Steible's office.

Pretty Miss Ila Flynn said that she wouldn't mind going through what the experts laughingly termed an "osculatory specialty." Her partner in the experiment was Arthur Cannon.

Each was chosen for his and her type; that is, Miss Flynn is an obviously normal, healthy, attractive American girl, while Cannon is equally characteristic of the average chap who plays football and goes to the movies and is not unappreciative of feminine good looks.

The test seemed amply to prove Dr. Schmack's contentions about the variance between masculine and feminine emotion. When the appliance was attached to Miss Flynn's shapely arm the indicator registered—100! But when Cannon's blood-pressure was taken the tiny hand on the dial quivered, darted upward, and finally rested on the 160 mark!

This proof of the Schmack theory (if proof it was) serves to cast an interesting light on other, prior theories of kissing, and just what it is scientifically. For example, it may affect the idea, long held by certain experts, that osculation is an electrical process.

According to this view, the impulse is a current generated in the fourth ventricle of the brain, and conveyed by the nerves which act as wires, via the "tenth nerve," or vagus, to the heart and lungs. These it stimulates to healthy activity.

By other nerves it is diffused through all the various parts of the body—by certain head nerves to the lips—and when two pairs of lips meet there is said to be a reaction corresponding to the spark and discharge which occur when two electrical wires are brought into contact.

Since both the blood and the nerves of the human system figure in any kiss, it is as yet impossible to say whether Dr. Schmack's belief and that about the electric spark contradict, or merely complement, one another.

But there would seem to be a divergence of opinion between holders of the two theories, since, according to the electrical theory, stimulation to healthy activity is induced by a kiss, while Dr. Schmack asserts that too frequent or prolonged kissing is highly injurious—to men—by overdriving the engine of the heart, which finally protests by thumping violently.

Perhaps the most interesting angle of the entire "to-kiss-or-not-to-kiss" situation is the plight of the so-called "champion kissers" of the stage and screen.

For, if they take Dr. Schmack's theory seriously, the men stars are apt to wince and balk when the director tells them to "put a little energy into it," as they bend over the heroine's lips.

She won't care, of course; for her blood pressure will be safely anchored at 100. But, poor hero! Can't you hear him shouting, "No I'd gladly endanger my health if I were really in love with the lady. But this isn't an INFATUATION; it's a JOB!"

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

ONE of the greatest four-flushers we've got today is the "Check-grabber." He's the fellow who tries to beat you to the check but always loses.

IF he ever succeeded in getting it away from you he wouldn't know what to do with it.

STILL, there isn't much danger in him doing this because he never starts grabbing until he sees you've got a good hold on it.

HE may not be in very good spirits during the meal but as soon as the check is paid he becomes real talkative.

IT' just a battle of minds. The two of you sit there and try to out-think each other.

AND the man who concentrates the longest, wins.

IT'S what the head waiter calls an endurance contest.

YOU sit opposite your friend and look at him as though you were going to pay it and he looks at you as though he is.

SOMETIME you sit there so long the waiter thinks nobody is going to pay it.

AS a rule he puts the check in the center of the table and then watches as each one of you try not to see it first.

A waiter never has to go abroad to witness the Olympic games. He can stand in any restaurant during the lunch hour and see one tug-of-war after another.

ONCE-OVERS

(Copyright, 1923, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

MAKE YOURSELF MORE VALUABLE BY USING YOUR HEAD.

Are you trying so hard to please your boss that you are fearful about exercising your own judgement in whatever you have to do?

Are you so engrossed in figuring out just how he would like to have you do things that you exercise absolutely no initiative in your work?

Are you going along in an automatic, machine-like manner, following a hard and fast set of rules, not daring to take a chance of varying your routine, even though at times you can see for yourself that you could improve the system?

If you are a dumbbell you are doing yourself and your boss an injustice.

If the boss is the right sort he desires to have your suggestions and wants to have you think up new and better ways to accomplish things in shop or office.

No doubt if you could think of a better way than the one he has planned, he would be glad to understand your ideas and would favor your carrying them out.

Be concise and clear in your explanations, and then do not get grouchy if he seems not to want to try them.

Of course you cannot know what he has in his mind.

Anyway, try using your own head and make yourself more valuable.

I was promised a check by a certain concern who owned us money. The following morning when I did not receive it I immediately called them up without inquiring whether I had the right number and began to upbraid them for not sending it.

When I had finished a calm voice said, "You have the wrong number, Madam. My employer was near me at the time. Was I embarrassed?
